Two Ships Delayed As Storm Strikes

Radio, Light Services Suffer As Lightning Damages Substations

The weatherman threw in thunder and lightning with driving rain and gale-force winds Monday night, added some bright sunshine today—still with blustery winds—and added a perfect rainbow across the sky to the west of the city today.

There was little damage ashore of Cadboro Bay after grounding on the west side of San Juan Island Monday afternoon.

The powerful 76-foot tug, the former Almara, was en route to New Westminster with an empty scow.

The Island Rover went to the scene, and the Despatcher was pulled free around 1 or 2 this morning.

A tree fell across a house at Langford doing considerable damage.

Radio station CKDA was off the air for a few minutes Monday night when lightning hit a line.

Keating and Prospect Lake districts were without power during part of the night after lightning struck substations in each area, a B.C. Electric spokesman said.

Transformers were knocked out by the respective bolts, and had to be replaced.

Prospect Lake service was off from about midnight till 2 and Keating from midnight to about 4.

A few residences in the Victoria area had lines leading from the street blown down or knocked down by falling branches.

At 2 this morning, it had reached a velocity of 40 mile an hour, with gusts up to 50.

It decreased about 10 miles an hour around 3, but increased about 5.30, and two hours later was 42 miles per hour with gusts again howling at 50.

There were showers off and on throughout, and during the 24-hour period to 4.30 this morning, 11 inches of rain fell.

The thunder and lightning came when the temperature rose. It stood at about 47 degrees during the night-long storm.

The unsettled conditions were scheduled to continue and it should be a little colder tonight.

Russian Agents 'Dominate' China

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang told the United Nations today 45,000 Russian agents completely dominate the political, economic and cultural life of Communist China.

Events of the last 12 months, Tsiang said, have fully proved his charges that the Chinese civil war was engineered by Russia and that the Peiping regime is the stooge and tool of Moscow.

He spoke before the General Assembly's 60-country political committee.

Tsiang told the committee Russia has completely ignored the Assembly's 1949 appeal to all countries to refrain from interfering in the internal affairs of China. He blamed Russia for the intervention of Communist China in the Korean war and said Russian imperialism was responsible for most of Asia's unrest.

He said the resistance movement on the China mainland is growing rapidly. Before September, 1949, he said, there were only some 395,000 men operating against the regime of Mao Tse-tung, but now there are about 1,667,000. About 15 per cent of these, Tsiang said, are Communist troops who have swung their allegiance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The Nationalist delegate urged the U.N. to create a special commission of inquiry to look into Russia's alleged aggression against China and to report back to the 1951 Assembly.

Branch Of Crashing Tree Penetrates Into Bedroom

A 70-foot fir tree which crashed at midnight Monday during the storm badly damaged the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barret, on the Island Highway near Florence Lake Road, two miles north of Colwood Corner.

One branch of the tree came through the roof into the bedroom where Mr. and Mrs. Barret, an elderly couple, were sleeping.

Mrs. Barret was reported to be suffering from shock.

According to reports one-half of the new five-room house was crushed and adjacent walls were cracked.

Because of heavy rains furniture had to be removed to safety. As soon as possible Mr. and Mrs. Barret sought help from neighbors, and spent the night at the home of John E. Payne.

U.S. Soldiers Burst Into Border Town

Infantry Unit At Yalu River

SEOUL (AP)—American troops today burst into the Korean border town of Hyesanjin, across the Yalu River from Communist Manchuria.

Tanks, flanked by bearded infantrymen of the United States 7th Division, lumbered up to the slushy banks of the Yalu at 9.45 a.m. (4.45 p.m. P.S.T. Monday).

They were the first Americans to reach the border.

Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander who was with his men when they reached the border, jubilantly announced that the drive to the Yalu boundary through snow-covered mountain passes has "divided enemy-held territory and isolated all significant forces east of the 127th meridian east longitude."

However, the Communists still have a great network of military highways and railways in the northeast, linked with Manchuria where Korean Communist armies are reported being reorganized.

And strong Communist build-ups, combined with the rigorous Korean winter, have brought predictions from United Nations intelligence officers the war will continue well into next spring.

Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, 7th Division commander, accompanied his 17th Regimental Combat team as it slopped down out of the mountains to the Yalu River banks near Hyesanjin.

NEW RED DEFENCE

Gen. MacArthur's intelligence officers in Tokyo expressed more concern over reorganization of Communist defenses along the northwest front.

A MacArthur spokesman said Red armies are organizing a defense system across strategic heights facing the advancing U.S. 1st Corps.

This line, about 10 miles north of the present front, covers about 20 miles in the mountain area between Hulichon and Anjang.

To the west, Reds are establishing blocking positions on hills dominating the flat ground leading to Sinulju, main entryway for Chinese troops into Korea.

These defenses block the U.N. approach toward the Suifu hydro-electric system along the western Korea-Manchuria border which supplies power to both areas.

Slain In Trailer

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—A woman identified by police as Ann Evans was shot to death early today in a trailer camp about four miles east of here.

Police said they arrested Lawrence Jones, a friend of the slain woman, for questioning. Both lived at the trailer camp, police said.

Russians Release Two U.S. Soldiers

FRANKFURT (UP)—Two U.S. soldiers held by the Russians for 10 days were released last Friday, U.S. army headquarters announced today.

The soldiers are M. Sgt. Joseph R. Zorn of Seymour, Conn., and Sgt. Peter E. Zaharis of Ithaca, N.Y.

Zorn and Zaharis, members of a U.S. Soviet liaison team, were detained by Soviet military authorities Nov. 7 when they crossed into the Russian zone near Herlshausen while performing their duties, the army said.

300 Patients Saved In Alaska Fire

BETHEL, Alaska (BUP)—More than 300 patients were removed safely when the Alaska Native Service General Hospital burned to the ground Monday.

One man was injured. The hospital is in Bethel.

Zero temperatures froze hose lines, making fire-fighting next to impossible. Doctors and nurses time after time re-entered the blazing building and led patients out.

One Eskimo woman who was under surgery when the fire broke out was carried to safety before the operation was completed.

Raise Fishboat But Find No Sign Of Skipper

NANAIMO (CP)—Salvage crews have raised the battered hull of the United States fish-racker Magnolia, but found no trace of her skipper.

The 65-foot vessel was hauled out of 35 feet of water in Georgia Strait, off South Pender Island. The ship sank when it ran aground about 40 miles southeast of Nanaimo Saturday.

R.C.M.P. said they believe the skipper, Hans Nordes of Seattle, was washed overboard and was drowned. Divers brought to the scene were not used.

Part of the vessel was raised Monday and towed to Bedwell Harbor.

The Magnolia left Seattle Wednesday with a cargo of lumber. Vancouver Island residents reported seeing fire flashes in the strait Saturday night.

The wheelhouse and foredeck were found washed up on the beach shortly afterwards.

Six Dead, Many Injured In Troop Train Crash

Emergency Is Proclaimed In California Flood

Nine Dead As New Rains Fall

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Governor Earl Warren today declared a state of emergency because of the raging floods in California's Central Valley.

He authorized all state agencies to use their employees, equipment and facilities to assist local communities.

The Adjutant-General's office put 5,000 National Guardsmen on the alert for emergency flood duty in the valley.

Flood waters today swept through northern and central California and western Nevada for the third consecutive day, causing uncounted millions of dollars in damage and leaving at least nine persons dead and thousands homeless.

Here is the present situation: Nevada—The main section of Reno is a tumbled mass of mud, debris and torn paving after the swirling Truckee River, normally three to four feet deep at this time of year, roared 20 feet deep and three blocks wide through the centre of "the biggest little city in the world."

For hours the downtown section was under six to eight feet of water, but the flood was receding today. One death resulted.

California—As Governor Warren declared a state of emergency, the Yuba County sheriff's office ordered the evacuation of an estimated 3,500 residents from East Linda, near Marysville, in the face of the threat of the flooding Yuba and Bear Rivers. The muddy torrent continues to rise.

Eight California deaths were attributed to the floods.

The weather bureau at San Francisco predicted "moderate to heavy rain" for the High Sierra today—ninth straight day of storms.

The biggest threat in California was the Sutter-Yuba County area. Dikes along the flooding Bear River broke, sending streams of water into several towns.

RIVER OVER LEVEES
At Sacramento, the American River spilled over levees late Monday night, chasing some 700 residents from homes along the river.

Governor Earl Warren put California National Guardsmen on the alert as the river lapped higher and higher.

The weather bureau warned hundreds of residents in the Sacramento area that the rolled river might go to 45½ feet. The all-time high is 44.03 recorded Sunday.

Army engineers in San Francisco estimated that California flood damage would exceed $12,000,000.

Ranchers and livestock producers reported heavy losses, including 75,000,000 to 100,000 turkeys ready for the United States Thanksgiving holiday Thursday.

Events of the last 12 months, Tsing said, have fully proved his charges that the Chinese civil war was engineered by Russia and that the Peiping regime is the stooge and tool of Moscow.

He spoke before the General Assembly's 60-country political committee.

Two tenders were opened today by Evan Jones, deputy minister of public works, for improved ferry service between Schwartz Bay and Fulford Harbor, Salt Spring Island.

Coast Ferries Ltd. agreed to provide the service for a $19,500 subsidy, subject to a 75 per cent rebate of any profit in excess of 10 per cent of the gross revenue after deduction of all charges including tax.

Gavin C. Mouat, George A. Maude and Associates, Salt Spring Island, asked for a subsidy of $24,000.

JAP COPPER MADE WORLD TRIP TO CHINESE REDS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Testimony that misdated bills of lading were made out for large quantities of Japanese copper shipped around the world to Communist China was supplied to a Senate subcommittee today.

Timothy F. Carberry, president of Metal Traders Inc., New York City, testified the shipping papers in question were made out on forms of the Isbrandtsen Shipping Line after his firm had sold the copper.

He was the first witness as a Senate commerce subcommittee reopened hearings on shipments of nearly 4,000,000 pounds of Japanese copper to the Chinese Reds by way of New York.

The committee is interested in learning what war-useful materials may have reached the Chinese Communists through American hands.

SIFT NEW EVIDENCE IN OTTAWA SLAYING

Police Seek Out-Of-Town Witnesses In Bludgeon Slaying Of Solicitor

OTTAWA (CP)—Police investigators today pieced together new bits of evidence in the hotel slaying of Francis J. Sullivan, but said they still had a "lot to check" in the bludgeon slaying of the 52-year-old Toronto lawyer.

Police indicated new witnesses were being sought — some of them at out of town points — as they traced the movements of the chief solicitor of the Ontario Lands and Forest Department whose nude body was found early Saturday on the bedroom floor in a tower suite in the swank Chateau Laurier Hotel.

His 50-year-old Toronto society widow, Mrs. Marion Sullivan, was formally charged in police court Monday with his murder and was remanded for a week and taken to Carleton County jail. Another remand will be sought to give police time to complete their investigation.

Chief Inspector of Detectives Ab Cavan said investigation of the death of Sullivan, who medical authorities said was killed by blows on the head with a blunt instrument was "coming along favorably."

He said police were not yet certain if Sullivan was struck while lying in bed or while lying on the floor of the hotel suite bedroom.

NEW WITNESSES
"We have a number of witnesses to interview and we can't immediately locate some of them because they are out of town."

Inspector Cavan declined to discuss what evidence police already have amassed. However, previously Police Inspector Borden Hobbs said an empty ginger ale bottle found in a bathroom of Mrs. Sullivan's belongings and which has since been examined at police laboratories, is being held.

Police were called into the case late Saturday, eight or more hours after Mrs. Sullivan had telephoned the hotel clerk for help to get her husband back to bed.

PROBE DELAY
Investigation of this delay is being carried out by Deputy Attorney-General C. R. Magone and H. H. Donald, inspector of legal notices. One angle which also will come under their scrutiny concerns the unusual precautions taken by police to guard Mrs. Sullivan against newspaper photographers, who have tried repeatedly and mostly unsuccessfully to get photographs of her.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Sullivan remained in a cell in Carleton County jail. Jail authorities said she had not requested nor been given any special treatment. She is getting regular prison fare and is subject to all regulation prison routine.

Hamber 'Holds Own'
ROCHESTER, Minn. (CP)—Hon. Eric Hamber, former lieutenant-governor of B.C., is "holding his own" following recent operation, a spokesman for the Mayo Clinic said today.

The spokesman said Hamber is "still very seriously ill but some of the complications have cleared up."

Head-On Mishap With Crack C.N.R. Train In Rockies

VANCOUVER—Six Canadian artillery soldiers were killed and the two engine crews were missing when a troop train collided head-on with C.N.R. transcontinental passenger train No. 2 today near Canoe River, B.C., west of Jasper, Alberta. Many others were believed injured.

Officials of the Canadian National Railways said all the dead were among passengers of the train taking units of Canada's Special Service Brigade from Camp Shilo, Man., to Fort Lewis, Wash.

The crews of both locomotives were missing, they said. E. G. Skelding superintendent of the transportation in Edmonton, said Canoe River is located 83 miles west of Jasper.

Railway officials said relief trains carrying doctors and nurses had been dispatched for the scene from Jasper and Kamloops, B.C. The first to arrive were from Jasper.

They said the collision occurred at 10:40 a.m. E.S.T.

The units of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery left by train last weekend for Fort Lewis. The No. 2 transcontinental which was involved in the collision left Vancouver, at 8:30, P.S.T., Monday night.

C.N.R. officials said early reports indicated all the deaths were among passengers of the troop train and that passengers aboard the transcontinental were only slightly injured.

They had no details of injuries. The weather was clear and mild.

NOTIFY KIN
Prairie Command headquarters in Winnipeg said identification of the dead would be released by National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa after the next-of-kin had been notified.

PATS COMPLETE TRIP
(In another troops movement today the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry went to Fort Lewis, Wash., after passing through Vancouver in four special trains.)

(In Ottawa today it was stated the 2nd Battalion Pats were expected to sail for Korea this week-end, probably for Pusan, Korea, where an advance party has already set up a camp. About 1,000 men will cross the Pacific.)

INJURED TAKEN TO JASPER
The 16-bed hospital in the little mountain resort town of Jasper, 280 miles west of Edmonton, began preparations shortly after noon to take care of some of those injured.

The hospitals' two doctors, Thomas O'Hagen and Gordon Straughan, left about 1 o'clock, M.S.T., by special train for Canoe River, 83 miles west of here. With them are some nurses.

St. Laurent, Malik Agreed Canadians, Russ Want Peace
OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent reports he and Russia's Jacob Malik are agreed on one thing—their respective peoples want peace.

Returning from a brief holiday in New York, Mr. St. Laurent said he had two "rather interesting" chats with Mr. Malik, the Soviet Union's permanent representative at the United Nations. On both occasions, they talked peace.

"I assured him," said Mr. St. Laurent with a smile, "that we wanted peace and he said the Russians wanted peace."

Col. Baldwin takes over a position which became vacant nearly three months ago through the death of J. Pitcairn Hogg.

Col. Baldwin latterly has been identified with the Department of Veterans' Affairs. He has been in charge of land settlement.

In commenting on the appointment, Labor Minister Cates said Col. Baldwin is a man of outstanding ability.

"His ability as an adjudicator was amply displayed when attending to thousands of cases requiring sound judgment in the rehabilitation of the Fraser Valley following the 1948 flood disaster," Mr. Cates added.

Col. Baldwin at one time was a partner in the bi-weekly publication of the Chilliwack Progress. He served with the Canadian Army for six years and during that time had a distinguished record. He ultimately became a member of the Operational Planning Staff and took part in the landing at Normandy.

He has acted as chairman of various conciliation boards and as a governor of the University of British Columbia.

Col. Baldwin takes over a position which became vacant nearly three months ago through the death of J. Pitcairn Hogg.

The new chairman is best known for the part he played in the devastating Fraser Valley floods of 1948. He and W. L. Macken, formed the Fraser Valley Rehabilitation Board which restored the valley after the river had run rampant.

Col. Baldwin latterly has been identified with the Department of Veterans' Affairs. He has been in charge of land settlement.

In commenting on the appointment, Labor Minister Cates said Col. Baldwin is a man of outstanding ability.

"I am sure he will bring to his new post outstanding abilities as an administrator, organizer, humanitarian and adjudicator," the minister said.

"His ability as an adjudicator was amply displayed when attending to thousands of cases requiring sound judgment in the rehabilitation of the Fraser Valley following the 1948 flood disaster," Mr. Cates added.

Industrialist Allan J. McDonnell, M.L.A. for Vancouver East visiting Victoria, said Col. Baldwin's name had not been mentioned in employer circles.

The name of Arthur MacNanara, deputy minister of labor at Ottawa, had been heard frequently in talk of the chairmanship selection.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

PARSONS AND POLITICS

THE ANNOUNCEMENT from Ontario of the appointment of Rev. John Foot, V.C., as minister of reform institutions for that province is of more than passing interest for two reasons. In the first place, the choice of a parson to administer a portfolio having to do with matters of moral and social reform seems to me particularly appropriate.

And when the minister in question also carries the proud and rare decoration of the Victoria Cross, the highest recognition of valor in the field, one may be sure that he is a "he-man," a man of courage and resource, the type of man who would be fearless in his public duty and—what is more important—the type whom criminals and delinquents coming under his jurisdiction would be most likely to heed and respect.

ELIGIBLE AND ABLE

THE ONTARIO clergyman is not the first member of the cloth to serve in Canada. The roster of all our political parties contains the names of parsons who have served with considerable success in both the Federal and provincial fields. But Mr. Foot's appointment reminds us that there is one particular on which Canada and Great Britain differ.

The British House of Commons last month saw the unusual spectacle of one of its Conservative members being evicted from his seat merely because he is an Irish parson. The Rev. J. G. MacManaway, Unionist member for West Belfast, was elected in February and, after three appearances in the House, found his right to sit there challenged under an 150-year-old statute.

AN ANCIENT LAW

WHEN the Clergy Disqualification Act was passed in 1801 it applied to all clergymen in England and Ireland. But in 1871 another act empowered members of the cloth to sit in Parliament provided they gave up their church office.

The original decision to debar clergy from the House arose because public opinion of that time held that it was not in the best public interest for representatives of the Established Church to have a hand in making the laws of the land—although, of course, the head of that church is automatically a member of the House of Lords.

COMMON INFORMER

BUT WHEN the union of the churches of England and Ireland was dissolved about 1869, and the Church of England became a separate establishment, Irish clergy were excluded from the concession set out in the 1871 Act. Mr. MacManaway—and the House generally—apparently thought he was rightfully seated, as the Church of Ireland is not an established church.

However, a common informer, F. L. McGhee of New Malden, Surrey, looked into the matter and, after satisfying himself that while not an established church, the Church of Ireland is an episcopal church, he laid a claim on the Irish member for £1,500 under the 1801 Act—which provides penalties of £500 for every day the ineligible member sits.

IRISH DILEMMA

QUITE naturally, the Irish member was annoyed at what he described as the pushing aside of the wishes of his constituents because of an "archaic legal enactment." But the House had no alternative except to take note of the common informer's claim.

The matter was debated in the House, then referred to a select committee, which was unable to make a ruling on the Irish M.P.'s position. Next, it went to the Privy Council. That judicial body decided against Mr. MacManaway, who was obliged to forfeit his seat. In the meanwhile the House passed a bill indemnifying him against the penalties, and itself against any penalty for paying his indemnity.

ROYAL COMMISSION

ALTHOUGH the M.P. came from Northern Ireland, the matter is hardly likely to do anything to improve relations between England and the Emerald Isle, which have been strained for so many years. As he walked out, he exploded: "A candle has been lit in Ulster today which will not be extinguished in the life of any Member here."

As I said before, I cannot understand why there should be any discrimination against parsons serving in politics. Goodness knows, it has been brought home to us more than once that the moral and spiritual issues cannot be ignored if world peace is to be built on a stable foundation—and the men who wear their collars the wrong way around have proved, by their very calling, that they have qualities of leadership, too.

Those Expenditure 'Demands' Bewildering To New M.L.A.

Madame Speaker Nancy Hodges came to the rescue Monday night of Victoria's "tyro" member of the Legislature, Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, during the annual meeting of Victoria Liberal Association.

Why, asked Capt. Proudfoot, did various organizations pass resolutions demanding increased expenditures by governments, and then grumble about higher costs?

"It bothers us all the first year," said Mrs. Hodges. A lot of people—those who always want more but don't want to pay for it—think the government has a big, deep hole to reach into for the money to pay for these things the people want.

Canada To Set Up Schools To Teach Civil Defence

Although there is no "shouting from the roof tops" on the subject a great deal is being done in civil defence preparation, the Victoria Liberal Association annual meeting was told Monday night by Hon. W. T. Straith.

The Minister of Education and Provincial Secretary said preparation of an organization to cope with peace-time disasters as well as war emergencies was being carried out in a methodical way.

He reviewed the work that has been carried out and gave an indication of work to be done, stressing the need for clear, level-headed thinking on the question.

"We aren't climbing flagpoles to shout about what we are doing, as some would have us do, because there must be no panic, nor excitement in our preparations," Mr. Straith said.

The Dominion government was providing the liaison with other countries for uniformity in civil defence. It had assumed financial responsibility in the matter of equipment and material for civil defence. And it was having personnel trained in Britain and the U.S. to teach civil defence procedure at schools to be set up in Canada at a later date.

The R.C. government was making extensive surveys in preparation of the setting up of a civil defence organization. It was determining what equipment was needed and where it should be located, was working on public health service utilization in the event of emergency, and was gathering a great deal of other vital information.

Municipal governments shortly will be informed of the pattern to be followed in local organization, Mr. Straith continued.

Reports Show Progress Of Liberal Assn.

They include G. A. A. Hebben, president; Ron Worley, first vice-president; Mrs. T. C. Smith, second vice-president; A. H. Cox, secretary, and Mrs. Blair Reid, treasurer.

Reports were submitted by Mr. Hebben and Mr. Cox. Mr. Worley as president of the Victoria County Young Liberal Association, Mrs. Smith as president of the Liberal Women's Forum, and Hugh Stephen, president of the Laurier Club.

Successful operations of the various organizations of the association were reported by each of the presidents.

Announcement was made that a reception will be held at Liberal Headquarters Friday night for Transport Minister Chevrier who will visit Victoria to officiate at the inauguration of the Pacific weather ship service.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH VICTORIA?

Trip Has Great Appeal To Tourists But High Cost Keeps Many Away

A "getaway" citizen who has made a study of civic problems feels there is room for improvement here. Following is the second of a series of articles which culminate in a constructive suggestion for the consideration of progressive Victorians.

By LEIGHTON MATTHEWS

Within the contents of this article we will attempt to deal objectively with the tourist industry. First, Victoria is the possessor of a mild climate and some pleasant scenic attractions, but aside from these two essentials, to put it quite bluntly, we do not offer a great deal.

I will go further and make the statement that a large part of our tourist influx arrives within our portals mainly from the desire for a trip over the water. This applies in particular to travelers who reside far from coastal waters, both in Canada and the United States. If this statement should be a fact—and I believe there are solid grounds for assuming it is—we are, indeed, fortunate. In this regard our only concern here should be to see that adequate service is supplied on varied routes at a cost which all can afford.

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

That water is our cheapest form of transportation is well known, and as a consequence it should follow that a sea voyage or equivalent land distances should result in a somewhat lower scale of prices. That is not, however, the case with regard to passenger rates in this area, which are comparable on a mileage basis to those charged by many airlines.

There are good reasons put forth by the transportation companies serving the island as to why this condition prevails; namely, the large costs of erecting docks, building luxury ships, etc. These are good arguments on behalf of the present rate structure, and the companies concerned no doubt believe they are fair in the circumstances.

The main concern of all of us should not be the cost of traveling to the island and return, but what effect does it have on the number of tourists who desire to visit us. That is to say, are we catering to the luxury tourist and leaving Joe Doakes and his family sitting on mainland docks admiring the view of the Sound?

The belief is held in many quarters that with the present palatial ships serving Victoria, we are encouraging a class trade and neglecting the mass market. The remedy would seem to lie in the services of one or two fast ships with all frills eliminated, designed mainly for daytime travel, with a minimum of cabins and a large passenger and car-carrying capacity. The C.P.R., with considerable foresight, has no doubt this possibly in mind with its new ship for the Nanaimo-Vancouver run.

STRESS SEA FOODS

The next major step would be to examine what we have to offer the tourist on arrival, and what we must do to extend his stay with us. As regards the accommodation offered here—both tourist camps and hotels—the situation would seem to be well above average. There are a few good restaurants here, but believing the tourist wants indigenous and variable menus, greater stress should be placed on sea foods and other items with an English or Canadian background. We have many fine gardens and scenic drives in the area. But we lack a great many things: Amusement park, zoo, horse-racing track, aquarium, an all-round art centre, a first-rate night club and some respectable method of consuming a drink. The average tourist is only human, and while holidaying is primarily out for a good time.

There are many other improvements which would seem necessary, and one would be—if we wish to preserve Chinatown as a tourist attraction constructive

15-YEAR GAP ENDS

New Zealand Returns To Capital Punishment

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — The New Zealand House of Representatives today reintroduced the death penalty—death by hanging—after a respite of 15 years.

The gallows have been idle in New Zealand since 1935 when a labor government came to power. Labor was pledged to expunge capital punishment from the law.

The new Conservative government, within a year of its election to office, has thus replaced the death penalty in the statute book.

A rise in crimes of violence and murder after the war brought much public agitation to reintroduce hanging. But the Labor government remained firm. In today's vote, the government allowed its supporters to decide each according to his own conscience. Only one Conservative joined the Labor ranks in opposing the death penalty, and the vote in favor was 38 to 31.

Man, Wife Shot To Death In Alberta Home

RYLEY, Alta. (CP)—A man and his wife were dead today from gunshot wounds following an argument in their small farmhouse on the outskirts of Ryley, 52 miles east of Edmonton.

Police said the shootings appeared to be murder and suicide. Mr. and Mrs. William Bonevitch, both about 50, died soon after arrival for medical aid.

First indication of the shooting was received by police in a telephone call from terror-stricken John Bonevitch, 16-year-old son of the couple.

He told them that his father had shot his mother and had forced him to write a note explaining the deed.

The youth told police that his mother and father had been in an argument shortly before the shooting. A brother-in-law, Nick Welychka of Kingman, Alta., had visited the house and Mr. Bonevitch objected to his wife's plan to accompany Welychka to Kingman to visit her sister.

LONDON (AP)—Britain today fired a missing atom expert who is believed to have fled to Russia in September.

He is Professor Bruno Pontecorvo, a specialist in cosmic ray research, formerly employed at the government atomic laboratory in Harwell.

Pontecorvo took a leave of absence in July and went to Italy with his wife and three children. He failed to return when his leave expired Aug. 31. The Pontecorvos were last seen in Helsinki. During the Second World War Pontecorvo worked at Canada's atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

A ministry spokesman said today Pontecorvo's salary was stopped when his leave ran out, but that he still was listed as an employee of the atomic laboratory until his formal dismissal today.

'Obviously Unfair' Architect Alleges

Henry Whittaker Criticizes City On Awarding Of Contracts

A charge of unfairness in awarding architectural contracts was leveled against the city in a letter from Henry Whittaker, M.R.A.I.C. architect, read at City Council meeting today.

He said he had applied for the architectural commission on the proposed health and welfare unit, only to be advised the work was awarded to Birley, Wade and Stockhill.

"Whilst I have respect for this firm individually and as a firm, I feel that it is obviously unfair that all the city architectural work should be given to this one firm, particularly as I have been a taxpayer in this city for over 35 years whilst the members of this firm reside outside the city," Mr. Whittaker wrote.

'NOW, THIS BUILDING'

He said the firm had obtained commissions for one or more city schools and recently obtained the city hall and a new firehall "and now this building."

"I feel that the council's attitude is obviously unfair in that all the above work should be entrusted to one firm whilst taxpayers in the city for many years are refused the opportunity and with the work that I have carried out in this city and throughout the province there can surely be no question of my ability," Mr. Whittaker wrote.

TAXPAYERS IN CITY

He said the city entrusted him with repairs to the Civic Arena, a job which he doubted many other architects would be anxious to take on.

"This cannot be a question of forgetfulness as I have previously written to the mayor and City Council regarding some of the previous works entrusted to this firm," Mr. Whittaker said.

He pointed out that he served without remuneration as a member of the city's planning board for many years and added that three members of his staff were taxpayers in the city and three others were residents.

No Clash Seen In Antarctic

LONDON (AP)—Britain, Argentina and Chile agreed today to keep their warships away from dispute Antarctic territories during the coming summer there.

A foreign office announcement said the three governments have exchanged notes to that effect "to avoid any misunderstanding in Antarctica which may affect (their) friendly relations." The exchange continues a two-year old agreement to avoid the risk of incidents.

Both Argentina and Chile have long disputed British claims to the Falkland Islands in the Antarctic. Britain claims them by right of discovery and occupation. Chile and Argentina have set up bases on some of the islands and from time to time have sent expeditions there.

Raise Fishboat But Find No Sign Of Skipper

NANAIMO (CP)—Salvage crews have raised the battered hull of the United States fish-packer Magnolia, but found no trace of her skipper.

The 65-foot vessel was hauled out of 35 feet of water in Georgia Strait, off South Pender Island. The ship sank when it ran aground about 40 miles southeast of Nanaimo Saturday.

R.C.M.P. said they believe the skipper, Hans Nordes of Seattle, was washed overboard and was drowned. Divers brought to the scene were not used.

Part of the vessel was raised Monday and towed to Bedwell Harbor.

The Magnolia left Seattle Wednesday with a cargo of lumber. Vancouver Island residents reported seeing fire flashes in the strait Saturday night.

The wheelhouse and foredeck were found washed up on the beach shortly afterwards.

Lands Minister Denies Charges Loggers To Exploit Parks In B.C.

The provincial government has no intention of allowing "secondary" exploitation of its parks through logging and power development.

This was made clear today by Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney who answered criticism voiced by various mainland people following a speech he made at Vancouver to the B.C. Mountaineering Club.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, former minister of trade and commerce, was loudest in objections made.

As president of the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League, Mr. Stevens issued a statement in which he condemned the government for statements attributed to Mr. Kenney that provincial parks "will be opened to secondary exploitation—logging and power development."

Mr. Kenney's reply was to the effect that Mr. Stevens and other critics misinterpreted his words. "I made no such statements," the minister said.

What he did say was that B.C. must manage its resources so that they may meet the needs of the people forever.

Of great and steadily increasing importance was recreational

T.C.A. Expects To Show Profit

EDMONTON (CP)—Belief that Trans-Canada Air Lines will show a profit on domestic operations this year after deficits in the last four years was expressed Monday by Transport Minister Chevrier.

In an address to an Edmonton service club Mr. Chevrier said he is "reasonably confident" of T.C.A.'s profit.

Iranian Vessel Here For Repairs

An Iranian ship is currently undergoing overhaul and general clean-up at the government dry-dock at Esquimalt.

She is the 10,000-ton Victory-type freighter Iran of the Iranian Navigation Co.

The freighter will be in dry-dock till Wednesday evening, then will be docked until Friday, when she will proceed to New Westminster to take on lumber.

use of land, and planning for recreation was an integral and co-ordinated element of sound land management.

Any plan for the development of recreation facilities in B.C. must permit utilization of lands and resources in the best interests of the people, though.

In class B parks, while recreation was the dominant use intended, "all such other uses and exploitations as do not impair recreation potentials are possible."

"We recognize recreation as the primary use of these park lands," Mr. Kenney said, "but, depending on needs and potentials, we are able to permit such other uses as are socially desirable."

Under this plan it was not likely that a valuable resource would be sacrificed to a less valuable one, or that an essential industry would be destroyed to foster a less necessary enterprise.

On the other hand, a secondary or subordinate exploitation not seriously interfering with a greater potentiality would be neglected or denied.

Brock Commands U.N. Fleet Off West Korea

A U.N. NAVAL BASE IN SOUTH JAPAN (CP)—Capt. Jeffrey Brock of Victoria, commander of the Canadian three destroyer flotilla which arrived here Monday from Hongkong will command the entire United Nations fleet on the west coast of Korea during the next patrol.

Besides the Canadian destroyers, Dutch, French and British units will take part in the patrol, for which preparations now are being made.

There was a stack of mail waiting for the men when the Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan pulled into this port from Hongkong. Because the men won't be home for Christmas, two R.C.A.F. planes will haul parcels to and from Esquimalt.

Most of the sailors got in their Christmas shopping at Hongkong, while the rest will make their purchases in Japan. One sailor at Hongkong bought shoes for himself and his three children, along with a set of china for his wife, all for $14. Many purchased good clothes for prices that would seem ridiculous in Canada. Others stocked up on all kinds of jewelry and a wide assortment of silks.

The ships will sail in company on patrol for the first time since the landing at Inchon.

Nomination Day In City Dec. 7

Nomination of candidates for the Dec. 14 civic election, at which six aldermen, two school trustees and one police commissioner are to be elected, will take place in City Hall Council chamber Dec. 7 from 12 noon until 2 in the afternoon.

M. F. Hunter, city clerk, was appointed returning officer at today's City Council meeting. Voting will take place at the Public Market from 9 in the morning until 7 at night, Dec. 14.

SIMPLON CUT BY BIG SLIDE

LAUSANNE, Switzerland—(Reuter)—A landslide cut the 12½-mile Simplon Tunnel railway line today, delaying the 'Orient Express' for several hours.

This was the second time within a week that the Simplon, world's longest railway tunnel, had been blocked.

300 Patients Saved In Alaska Fire

BETHEL, Alaska (BUP)—More than 300 patients were removed safely when the Alaska Native Service General Hospital burned to the ground Monday. One man was injured. The hospital is in Bethel.

Zero temperatures froze hose lines, making fire-fighting next to impossible. Doctors and nurses time after time re-entered the blazing building and led patients out.

One Eskimo woman who was under surgery when the fire broke out was carried to safety before the operation was completed.

Shades Of The Tub-Thumper!

SMALL WONDER BRITISH COLUMBIA'S Attorney-General Wismer was "amazed" at the decision of the Alberta government to invoke the Aberhartian method of control. His amazement was occasioned by the pronouncement by Provincial Secretary C. E. Gerhart that legislation would be introduced at the next session of the neighboring province's Legislature "to take control of professional people, including doctors, lawyers, and dentists." The minister explained that the purpose was to dissipate the idea in the public mind that the professions were "closed shops."

What kind of double talk is this? Put it another way. John Brown, a farmer from Cardston, for example, might be selected by Premier Manning for the portfolio assigned to the control of the professions. It would be his duty, presumably, to appoint a committee to train the Aberhartian microscope on some lawyer, some doctor, some dentist who had spent a good deal of money on his training, and Mr. Brown might then say no in capital letters to such an application for permission to practice. This may be exaggerating the potential risks.

But it will be remembered that the Aberhart government tried, through similar legislation, to muzzle the press of Alberta. It did not get away with it. The legislation was challenged by the newspapers—and well do we remember the noble job Mr. John Imrie, then publisher of the Edmonton Journal, did in defence of freedom of the press. The case was taken to the Privy Council in London and declared ultra vires of the Alberta Legislature. One result of this, incidentally, was that Mr. Imrie won the only Pulitzer Prize ever to come to Canada.

The kind of control announced for legislative action by Mr. Gerhart is repugnant to Canadians of every political stripe. Goodness knows there is enough authoritarianism rampant in the world today to make us want to discourage the superimposition of such a law on the free people of this free country.

B.C. Parks Do More Than One Job

DURING HIS TALK IN VANCOUVER the other day to the B.C. Mountaineering Club, Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney paid specific attention to the recreational use of much of this province's relatively undeveloped territory. His remarks followed, in general form, the attitude of recreation experts who have underscored the need to maintain natural sites for public enjoyment and to avoid destruction of recreational attractions by introduction of commercial activities.

At the same time the minister pointed out that "Vital as is recreation and great as may be society's need for parks, it is a fact that we, and posterity, have many other needs which must be met by our lands and forests."

"While commercial development is prohibited by legislation in Class 'A' Provincial parks, it is permissible in Class 'B' parks, provided it does not impair recreation potentials."

"Thus," said the minister, "in Provincial parks, we are able to practice what we may call 'optimum land use.' We recognize recreation as the primary or dominant use of these lands but, depending on needs and potentials, we are able to permit such other uses as are socially desirable."

That seems a fair statement of policy. It in no way ignores the needs of the people or the responsibility to posterity. Though it does not cite individual cases in which specific commercial operations could, or would, be undertaken on particular tracts, it provides a broad outline of the system on which the department has built its parks program.

One of our mainland contemporaries has asked: "Just how much lumbering, mining and hydro-electric development can go on in a park—even one of our great natural parks—before it ceases to become a park in the true sense of the term?"

Individuals place different definitions on the word "park" but it would seem that the outline provided by Mr. Kenney promises adequate protection for the public of British Columbia, both present and future, in the preservation of natural playgrounds. People can enjoy parks only when they are prosperous enough to visit them. Part, at least, of that prosperity depends on lumbering, mining and hydro-electric development, which should be given consideration where such activities can be co-ordinated with parks use.

A Matter For The People

A CURSORY SURVEY OF OPINION in Victoria indicates that a considerable number of residents would welcome an opportunity to vote on the question of relaxing Sunday "blue law" restrictions. Such a referendum is being prepared in Vancouver for submission to the public next month. A similar expression of opinion was asked of Toronto citizens at the last civic elections—and the proposal was adopted by a sizeable majority.

Local proponents have stopped short of advocating the so-called "open Sunday." But it has been suggested that in some fields of entertainment that would not conflict with church services a relaxation of present regulations would be beneficial. It is argued that there is little essential difference between spending Sunday afternoon watching a golf match—legal entertainment under current laws—and watching a baseball game. It is contended, too, that morning and evening church attendance would not suffer by a change in the law, inasmuch as there would be no conflict with afternoon activities.

It is recognized, of course, that Victoria may differ in its character from some of the larger centres of population; and that it might be difficult to draw the line between various enterprises that would claim "me too" treatment once an exception had been made. At the same time, a question such as this is one that the majority should decide. A minority, whether for or against the proposition, should not set the pace, and in Toronto, Vancouver, or anywhere else there is only one effective way to decide a public issue—by popular ballot.

Some Bits And Pieces

A civilized nation is the one that makes other nations build bombproof shelters.

There's nothing that makes a good careful driver out of a man like sighting a police patrol car in the distance.

Indo-China Is Main Hot Spot Not Korea, Say Some Experts

By BRUCE BLOSSAT, From New York

THE CHINESE Communists have turned down a United Nations invitation to discuss before the Security Council their intervention in the Korean war. There can't be any great surprise in this. They could not have denied the presence of their troops in Korea, since they have broadcast appeals for "volunteers" for all the world to hear. They could only have tried to offer some excuse for their action. But all but one of their possible excuses would not have carried much weight in the U.N. There is evidence that a good many nations, including the United States, would have given consideration to the Reds' obvious interest in the power-dams on the Korean side of the Manchurian border.

Yet the chances are Mao Tse-tung has other aims as well, which would not stand U.N. scrutiny. As many observers have suggested, he may want to prolong the war through the bitter winter, to help Reds generally to regain some of their lost prestige in the Far East. He couldn't easily talk of such things to the Security Council. If he chose to speak only of China's worries over power dams, he might find himself embarrassed by a U.N. promise to safeguard his interests there. Then he'd have no course but to get out of Korea.

That the Reds have decided not to come indicates pretty strongly that the dams are only part of the story. And they much prefer to keep the rest of the world guessing as to what the other parts are.

As Communist forces continue to advance in Indo-China to the south, a new theory is emerging that the whole Korean operation may, in the Reds' view, be merely a diversion. The real show is in Indo-China, some experts are saying.

According to this version, everything the Communists are doing outside that French-defended land is aimed at distracting the United States, Britain and other potential allies of France.

It's argued that for the future of all Southeast Asia Indo-China is vastly more important than Korea or Tibet or Formosa. Indo-China in Red hands might open up India, Burma, Malaya and Indonesia to relatively easy Communist conquest.

Since no western nation has any wish to invade Red China and get involved in a war with her hordes of soldiers, Mao is definitely in a position to thumb his nose at the West. We have no choice but to go on guessing his motives.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

YOU CAN SAY what you like about the nuisance of sending cheques to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service. But at least this branch of our government does not put us to the trouble of getting our cheques certified first. It accepts ordinary uncertified cheques in an ordinary manner. It doesn't worry at all, for it knows the name and address of the sender. Nobody would be foolish enough to toy with bad cheques in such a matter. The motor vehicles branch, however, insists on cheques being certified before they are used to buy a motor license. As if you couldn't trace a man through his car license! (If you can't, why have car licenses at all?) And as if the police, of all people, are unable to arrest such an elementary passer of bad cheques!

HOLIDAYS IN JAIL

THE OTHER day Nancy Hodges quoted a Scottish chief constable who had been objecting to the way prisoners could get whisky, sherry, roast beef, and other luxuries in Scottish prisons. One sees his point. . . . A jail should not be too luxurious. Yet a prisoner, I think, will always feel confined no matter what you feed him or allow him to smuggle in.

In the bad old days when rich and great men were confined in the Tower of London or the Bastille, they were allowed what food and drink they could afford, yet not one of them failed to feel imprisoned. You may object that they (some of them) had noble minds and thus suffered more. But even a tiger or bear can feel caged behind bars, no matter what meat you hurl at him, though tigers and bears have never been noted for true nobility of mind.

THERE is another thing to consider about imprisonment, though I can offer no solution. Any man is apt to become a little queer after being locked up for a while, whether he is a prisoner of war or a criminal or a mere invalid or hermit. Does it benefit either him or society to turn him loose as queer as possible after a long stretch? I think that once it has been determined which things make him queerest, these things should be avoided. I quite agree that these matters should be decided by the keepers rather than by the kept. But I do think they should be decided.

Incidentally, I am always sorry to see so few judges and magistrates willing to undergo a short term of imprisonment as a kind of apprenticeship to sentencing other men. Nearly all judges worry a great deal about the matter of sentences. They try every day to be as fair as they can. They even visit prisons, and study their subject harder than most of us would.

THEY are probably fairer than most of us would be. But they are studying prisons from the outside, and studying time itself from outside, so to speak. . . . all except those who have been prisoners of war. This is not to accuse judges of lack of sympathy. Far from it. It is merely to suggest that imagination, on or off the bench, can never be as vivid as the experience itself. I certainly don't suggest that a judge should try hanging himself a little before sentencing another to be hanged, just to get the feel of it. Anyhow, a judge has no choice in hanging matters, though the public forgets this.

CELLAR COOL OR COOLER CELL

SINCE, UNLIKE the Police Gazette, this column today is dealing with law and order, let us speak of two more police topics in the news lately. The first is the affair of the man in Calgary who (according to C.P.) was "arrested on a charge of suspected insanity." That's a mighty nasty crime to be charged with. The fellow deserves a life sentence. The deed which revealed his criminal nature was pretty sordid, too. He gave some money away. Ugh and laugh. Shudder, shudder. The old imagination boggles. But though it boggles, it can still imagine a thrilling scene when the cops had the rat cornered. He probably tried to shoot it out, with a steady stream of dollar bills directed at the officers, but they returned this deadly fire with interest (5%) and he finally fell, wounded in the wallet. Or maybe they gassed him from his hide-out by half-suffocating him with ten-spots.

ANOTHER ITEM was the news that the Vancouver police are getting serious about assaying the alcoholic content of alleged drunks. Various types of equipment, already used elsewhere, will test the blood and breath of the prisoner, and if he turns out to contain a certain amount, the onus will be on him to prove himself sober. Well, that's perfectly splendid, except for three or four things.

The breath machine, so the Seattle police find, reacts violently to onions as well as alcohol, so that any drunk onion eater is branded as dead drunk even when sober. The blood test is better, but how can you arrive at one onus-changing figure for two men of different physiques? My Uncle Terence can turn himself into a maniac on a drink that barely takes the chill off my Uncle Lawrence, yet their alcoholic content is the same.

AS FOR THE ONUS of proving yourself sober, it is just as hard to prove yourself sober as it is to prove yourself rational. In the calm of your own house you might manage it, but when you are sick with fright after an accident and an arrest, that is a different thing. I have seen men stagger, tremble, and mumble after a physical and emotional shake-up. So have the police seen them.

As a matter of fact, I usually wobble a little at the very sight of a cop. Nor am I unique.

That 'Agrarian Reformer'

WE MUST PLANT SEEDS OF NEW SOCIAL ORDER

As Our Readers See It

SUPER-SERVICE

The public-spirited executive of the Provincial Trades and Labor Congress are now on record as intending to demand, in all seriousness, that the difference in cost between a private and public ward shall be paid for out of the funds of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

Apparently, hospital care at minimum expense is no longer of major concern to those fussy gentlemen. Eventually, they may require the provision of pink sheets and multi-colored blankets on double spring-filled mattresses, with gold framed portraits of national labor leaders nailed above each patient's bed.

Addition of little bedside calculating machines to help work out further wage increase demands, and beautiful nurses to tell bedtime fairy stories would probably complete the cosy picture.

Clearly, the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress have a real sense of responsibility towards their sheeplike members, who will naturally be only too glad to pay the extra insurance premiums that their leaders' unnecessary luxury demands are certain to call for.

PET SCHEME

HAVING read that Victoria beaches are littered with the carcasses of our dear, dear departed dumb friends—and awful is the stench therefrom—makes me indeed relieved that I chose not to retire in that city of "stinks." Do not Victorians have gardens? Strange they should keep pets without them.

When I was an owner of pets I acted on the advice of European monks who grew marvelous grapes in their graveyards and in consequence produced a famous beverage. I buried my pets beneath my modest vineyard—and great was the return from a miscellaneous assortment consisting of cats, dogs, goldfish, white mice and toads. I was glad, I admit, Laura the cow never died during my ownership of her.

What better way is there of keeping alive the memory of our beloved companions? A toast to "absent friends" immediately becomes charged with meaning.

What a grand thing for our capital to possess, a municipal vineyard fertilized by the bodies of our charges whose souls have been "gathered unto their fathers."

Duncan.

DEFENCE PLAN

Would you assume responsibility for assuring mankind that we positively have six months' immunity from a new outbreak of modern war? That is how long it will take, if begun immediately, to put into effect the vital projects here-under outlined.

While not, at this stage, lulled into a false sense of security, we, on our part, seriously challenge the adequacy and urgency, of present plans and developments to meet any lightning-stroke exigency.

The tactical advantage of striking the first blow, under secretly prepared plans with a preponderant striking force, took the troops of Kaiser Wilhelm halfway across France—and almost knocked her out. A more heavily armed blitzkrieg drive by Hitler over-ran France, most of Europe, in a shorter period of time. Britain was almost knocked out by a force of no more than 500 planes.

Make your own comparison of the two previous wars, with the magnitude and striking power of a major aggressive force with modern weapons today.

We believe that this time, and now, the people themselves should voice in unmistakable language, their opinion and wishes about what preparation and protection they demand as an absolute minimum.

We believe that immediately, without an hour's delay, plans should be drawn and work rushed on the construction of bombproof storage space for a six months' food supply for every urban community which could conceivably suffer attack.

In addition, each household should be advised to provide themselves with a 45-gallon capacity galvanized sheet metal tank or barrel to keep a week's supply of water always on hand for drinking and cooking purposes.

We have other defence plans in hand which are available to defence authorities upon request, or from time to time.

J. BULLIVANT,
1547 Yale St.

SAANICH PROBLEMS

Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper to ask a vital question. What is wrong with the Municipality of Saanich? I have lived in Saanich for nearly 40 years and I have never seen the municipality in such a filthy condition.

The revenue has never been so high as at the present time yet we have no funds to do anything. At the beginning of this year the reeve laid practically all the laborers off the roads with the result that the ditches are all overgrown and full of filth. Maybe this is a plot to force the sewerage by-law, but I would never vote for the scheme put forward by Mr. Dawson.

I have to admit I voted for the road building by-law but had I known what I know now I would have voted "no." The engineer tells us the gravel pit will not last much longer, but the fellow who owns the property next door will sell for $30,000. I wonder what that property is assessed at?

When times were bad we had two or three men in each ward to clean out ditches and patch roads! Now we have none. It is time the ratepayers got out and cast their votes for men who will manage the municipality in a creditable manner.

The sewerage question is another problem. The city were willing to accept $75,000 but for some reason the reeve had the question hoisted for one year. Was that another trick to do away with the idea? I think it is time the ratepayers awoke to the fearful situation.

F. T. ROGERS,
185 Sims Ave.

DOLLARS AND DOUGH

When I was a child my mother suggested the way to catch a bird was to salt it. Today she might suggest the same thing regarding inflation?

How human to demand more money, greater profits, and then realize one thing up another. There is no free and easy way to control trends.

Values are relative and here we have an illustration of relativity in an economic sense. An expanding universe of price increase in inverse ratio to a contracting dollar.

Appearances to the contrary, values are not tangible. Your exchange value in the dollar goes up or down although the price of gold may be fixed.

Human nature should see the problem as subjective rather than objective and impossible of solution apart from itself. The body politic to overcome inflation must operate on its own heart and soul rather than on the inflation it seeks to cure. . . . Inasmuch as expanding prices and contracting dollars are outward and visible signs of man's inner workings.

Inflation works on the principle that dollars, like dough, can be expanded without loss of value. Is this possible?

Travel Diary

Another in a Series

By I. NORMAN SMITH

Associate Editor of The Ottawa Journal

NEW DELHI, India—Indian history is so old that you can pick a date back about 1500 B.C., and say that at that very time there was a kind of civilization on this very spot. One book tells me man lived a thousand years back in that time, which is a lot of living. My own knowledge of all this is rudimentary, shall we say. I know, for instance, that this so-called New Delhi is the eighth Delhi. That the previous Delhis were all on or around this present site, but the washing of the tides of time has left only tombs and stones. There is however an Old as well as a New Delhi right now, the Old Delhi being the seventh and about 10 miles from the heart of the New. Old Delhi is fascinating, full of narrow streets and meandering cows and milling crowds and noisy bazaars and historic monuments and crying beggars and cartoon-like street cars threatening to collapse under the load of people that clamber on the roofs and to the axles. New Delhi is something quite different. In 1911 King George the Fifth announced to the Coronation Durbar that the Emperor was pleased to announce a New Delhi would be built and that the capital of India would be moved to it from Calcutta.

BUILT NEW CITY
Sir Edwin Lutyens and Sir Herbert Baker set about building a new city from the dusty plains and today you have wide and luxurious boulevards lined with trees and spacious homes, you have government buildings and governor's residence (now occupied by the president) of magnificent dimensions and imagination, you have new hotels wrestling with the east to become western and new shops and restaurants being neither east nor west but a sort of travelers' cheque domain where only English is spoken.

The new India will change New Delhi, it will move out what few remaining English officials there are and it will move out English as the official language. But it will cater to American and English tourists and it will be delighted to receive English or American capital or investment or aid. There are some leftists around who say they don't want western aid because of political strings or national pride or something. But the wise old gaffer, snicker at this and say India will snap like a crocodile at anything resembling help or aid. But that's politics; I mean just to say about a word on New Delhi before I pack my bags to fly out of here tomorrow morning before dawn.

EARLY DEPARTURES
When I get home, incidentally, I'm going to move for a Royal Commission to investigate why all air lines in all countries always leave airports at about 6 a.m. and why it is essential that all customers be at the airport to knit or swat flies at least an hour in advance. Speaking of time, for no reason at all I'm reminded that two days ago I ordered myself a white linen jacket—for coo and for evening wear and for just plain dog. Well, he asked could I drop in that evening for a fitting and I did and it was half made, and the following day I put it on and walked out of the store feeling like a combination of a vicerey, a waiter and Adolphe Menjou.

But the point of the story is that out east, as we say, you can have your tailor run up a suit in a day and your cobbler will make you a pair of shoes in two.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TORIN

"I DON'T suppose," said the Elevator Man, "there's ever been a man or woman who didn't try to influence other people's opinions. And the most popular way of influencing them seems to be to try to change 'em completely around. Apparently few of us hear a 'yes' without wanting to shout 'no.' Few of us hear 'it's black' without an inner urge to claim it's probably white. In fact, trying to alter other people's beliefs is such a recognized human need that lots of fellas make their living teaching us how to do it. You've likely seen the ads many a time: 'Be a leader, make people listen to you, make your opinions count, influence those around you, send for our free booklet.' It's a good thing everybody doesn't go in for it. With all those master minds around there'd be nobody left to be browbeaten and swung over. Going up!

"I guess," said the Elevator Man, "of all the ways to talk people into agreeing with you, the tub thumper has the hardest. The old Hyde Park soapbox type is a standard in every country. But in lots of places they don't get the easy reception they do in London. I like that story of the fiery orator who was urging death and destruction for all the country's leaders. The crowd started yelling for and against him, and getting excited. A London bobby strolled into the mob and shouted, 'Nah then. Nah then. Those to burn Buckingham Palace line up on the right. Those for Downing Street on the left. And careful with your matches.' That finished the speech. Going down!

"It's likely," said the Elevator Man, "a lot of the free advice we get from speakers would fade out if the advisers were suddenly given a chance to put their plans into operation. It's a great thing to scream for justice. But we might not always like it if we got it."

Arts Centre Buys Uthoff Painting As Start Of Permanent Collection

The Arts Centre of Greater Victoria has announced through Dr. Harry Hickman that the executive committee of the gallery has purchased "Sunflowers" by Mrs. Ina D. D. Uthoff. This oil painting, priced at $100, is at present hanging in the Jury Exhibition, which closes Saturday evening. The committee feels that it is appropriate that the centre's first purchase towards a permanent collection should be a canvas by Mrs. Uthoff, who is not only a fine artist but a tireless worker for the local gallery. She is chairman of the exhibition committee responsible for booking circuit shows, several of which will be at the Broughton Street gallery during the coming months.

The Arts Centre plans to purchase, at least once a year at the annual Jury Show, an outstanding work by a local artist. In this way Victoria will acquire a representative collection of local paintings of artistic and historic value. The committee of the Arts Centre in charge of the recital given in October by the Paganini String Quartette reported a profit of $160, which will be used in the work of the gallery.

THE HOME GARDEN

Good Rooting System Essential For Bulbs

By HILDA BEASTALL.
Home gardeners, including the indoor window gardeners, will have potted up bulbs for flowering during the winter months.

Some may have put a few bulbs in a pot and left everything to chance. Such a procedure will only result in small flowers because top growth will start before a good root system has become established.

Narcissus bulbs (the daffodils and jonquils) require two months in a pot before they can be potted in a cold, dark storage to form roots. Should you have kept yours in a light room, and providing the top growth is not too far advanced, you may still be able to get the large flowers you hoped for by putting the pots into storage at once.

Tulips are admittedly more difficult to handle. After the rooting period, the pots are kept in the dark, but with heat, until the buds are opening. This is the commercial method. They may be grown in the open light, but are much later in flowering.

Hyacinths may be treated either way, but still need the rooting period.

FOR GROWING INDOORS.
There are several other kinds of bulbs which are worth growing indoors. Some, of course, will winter outside in a well drained, protected location, and flower fairly early. Sparaxis, Ixia, and Tigridia are in this group. But if yours is a heavy soil, and an open exposure, try a few Sparaxis bulbs in pots. There is still time to plant them for flowering in late April.

Sparaxis do not need to be stored in the dark, but they do like a cool place with a fair amount of light until the tips are through the soil. After that, give them full light and keep them as cool as possible all winter.

Freessias, which were potted in August for early winter bloom, are another subject which does better grown under cool conditions. Once the buds have formed, a little warmth will hasten flowering.

Princess Pats At Fort Lewis Base

Infantry Force Geared For Early Departure To Korea

FORT LEWIS, Wash. (BUP)—Bulk of Canada's special force arrived at this springboard to Korea today, still uncertain whether they would take a backflip to Europe.

At least one group definitely will go. The 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry pulled into this U.S. staging camp today aboard four troop trains, geared for imminent departure aboard a U.S. transport. The 2nd Pats will be replaced here by a third regiment.

A Canadian army spokesman said it would not be decided whether the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment and the Royal 22nd, from Quebec, with their supporting artillery would go to Korea until they were fully trained.

"That may be the end of January or early February," he said. "If they still are needed in Korea, they'll go."

The spokesman said a final decision would rest with two agencies. One is the Canadian cabinet in Ottawa, which will have the last word, and the other is the defence chiefs of the North Atlantic treaty defence organization, who might ask for Canadians in Europe.

RETURN HOME SHORTLY

It was learned in Ottawa, meanwhile, that part of the 345-man advance party already in Korea preparing a campsite near Pusan for the Princess Pats may soon come home. A headquarters spokesman said they went there specifically to lay the groundwork for the fighting force, and that work was nearly finished.

Rockingham planned to stay here with the rest of his brigade after the Pats leave.

A Wise Old Lady

... whom we know rather well, owns a hat shop. One day, not long ago, she was offered a choice of two gifts—a $1,000 cheque, or a trip to Europe. She gave her decision without any delay at all. "I should prefer," said she, "to take the trip to Europe!"

We agree with the old lady. We agree because she had earned her trip. We agree because her reasoning was very wise indeed. "All my life," the wise old lady said, "I have saved my money against the day when I could close up my shop and retire from business. My Bank Manager tells me the day has come when I can afford to take it easy. Now, I agree a cheque for $1,000 would give me a little more security... But I already have that. And a trip to Europe would give me memories no money could buy!"

This story has a pleasant ending... The old lady went to London and Paris and returned home refreshed... and with many new ideas for hats. She hired two clever young girls to help her in the shop and now she is teaching them to save their money so, they too, may travel to Europe themselves one day.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"How do we stay out of this slam?" asks a Phoenix correspondent. "North thinks that South overbid when he jumped from three clubs to four hearts. North says that three no-trump was quite enough, and that even a cue-bid of three spades would warn North that there were duplication of values."

"South thinks his jump was not an overbid inasmuch as he had passed on the previous round. If his hand had been any stronger, he would have bid instead of passing."

"South goes so far as to say that the slam should have been bid even though it was not made. He thinks he had a good play for the slam, but was unlucky."

"West opened the king of spades, and South won with the ace. He then took the king and queen of diamonds, noting the had break. He continued with the rest of the trumps, ending with the ace. His next step was to lead the jack of spades and discard a low club from dummy. East won and returned a spade to South's 10, dummy discarding other low club."

"Now all would have been well if the hearts had broken normally. But they didn't break, and down South went."

"Will you comment on the bidding and on the play?" I agree with South in every detail but the way he played the hand. He was right to pass over two spades, but then he was also right to jump to four hearts in order to show that he had not opened a real "mouse-trap." More-over, if he could see his partner's hand he would want to get to six diamonds; and if that contract could not be made, it would be hard luck and not bad bidding."

However, I think that South should have made his contract. That is, a very expert South might have brought it home. It must be admitted that it is a difficult hand to play properly and that only a very fine player should be expected to make it. Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of spades and then cash the king and queen of diamonds. Just as declarer actually did. But then, when the trumps fail to break, declarer must lead a low club from dummy. It's dollars to doughnuts that the king of clubs is with the spade overall, especially when that overall was on a queen-high suit."

East takes his club king and probably returns a club (as good as anything). South wins in his own hand and should now take out insurance against a bad break in hearts. Without drawing any more trumps, he should cash the king and ace of hearts. (If West could ruff, the hand would be hopeless anyway). When the actual heart situation is thus revealed, he takes the queen of hearts and ruffs a heart with his low trump."

Now South can lay down the ace of diamonds, enter dummy with the ace of clubs, draw the last trump with the jack of diamonds, and cash the last heart. Difficult, but it works out."

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

From terror few are wholly free
On land, in air, in sea.
—Old Mother Nature.

This is sadly true of nearly all who run, fly or swim. It is doubly sad that Man is the cause of much of it, all too often in the name of sport. The flock of Honker the Goose, flying over the sea on their way to the Sunny South for the winter, had seen something that seemed impossible to believe. They had seen Finback the Whale suddenly sound, as the diving of a Whale is called. It wasn't just his sounding that had puzzled them and set them to gabbling as they rested for the night. It was the suddenness with which he had done it and the manner of it. It was as if he were frightened, terribly frightened."

Who or what could frighten anyone as big as Finback, one so unbelievably big? Nothing and no one could. That is the way they felt. Yet something or someone had, or they didn't know right when they saw it. Do you wonder that they were filled with wonder and excitement, and that they gabbled long after they should have been asleep?

Big as he was, and he was more than 60 feet long, Finback had been afraid. He had had a sudden and terrible fright. Somehow, he had discovered that the terror of the seas, known everywhere as the Terrible One, was in the neighborhood. He was as much smaller than Finback as the latter was smaller than Baleen the Blue Whale, largest of all animals. In fact, he was little more than a third as long as Finback."

THE TERRIBLE ONE

The Terrible One belongs to the Dolphin branch of the Whale family and is known as the Killer Whale. He is in the sea what Shadow the Weasel is and Green Meadow folk on land, among the smaller Green Forest a born killer, carrying terror wherever he goes. Unlike his great relatives, the Terrible One has teeth, great wicked-looking teeth. And how he can tear with them! Everybody who swims is in fear of him. Baleen the Blue Whale, largest of all animals that have ever lived, many times as big as the Terrible One, flees at his approach just as Juniper the Hare takes to his heels when little Shadow the Weasel appears. Perhaps it would be otherwise if Baleen had teeth, but he hasn't, not a solitary tooth."

Everybody who swims is in fear of him.

It was the following morning that the younger members of Honker's flock saw the Terrible One for the first time. They had just started the morning flight and were flying low over the water when they saw a large, pointed, black fin just above the surface. It was cutting through the water swiftly. A moment or two later they passed directly over it and saw just under the one from whose back it grew. He was much smaller than either of the two Whales they had seen, Finback and Baleen, yet looked so much like a Whale that they were sure it must be one."

"It must be a baby Whale, or a half grown one," said a young Goose."

SUCH TEETH

Just then the Terrible One opened his mouth, and they saw his teeth. Such teeth! Remembering that neither Finback nor a great fin on the middle of his bigger cousin had teeth, nor back, they suspected that this might not be a baby after all, but one fully grown, which he was. He looked different in other ways, too. He had a large spot of white over each eye, a white throat and big white spots on his body. The rest of his coat was black, and there was something about him so fierce that just looking at him made them shiver, although they were not the least bit cold."

He was soon left far behind, but he wasn't forgotten. When a long time later they rested on the water, they hadn't forgotten him. At once they began gabbling about him and gathered around Honker, asking him about the fierce-looking stranger. "He is a Killer Whale and is called the Terrible One. I guess he is about the most terrible person in all the Great World. He could swallow one of you whole, and would if he had the chance, and wouldn't know he had swallowed any one, or hardly know it," replied Honker."

Rotation Relief For Brigade Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian troops who serve in Korea will be relieved on a rotation basis, Brig. J. M. "Rocky" Rockingham says.

But, he added, it is impossible to estimate the time they must spend overseas.

"Naturally," Canada's U.N. brigade commander added, "if the whole force went to Korea there wouldn't be any (rotation) relief."

Ede's mind flashed back. A darkened deck; a faint, almost imperceptible scent of perfume. She smiled.

"I see Mrs. Winwood stumbled upon what must have looked to her like a movie fade-out. And, being the kind she is, she'd have to make a remark about it."

"It—it doesn't matter," Gil said quickly.

"You're absolutely right, Gil. It doesn't matter—now. Tell me, what do you think Northcott will do next? Take his account away from us, I suppose?"

"No," said Gil, unexpectedly. "I don't think so. Since we're on the subject, I went to see him the other day and we patched up our quarrel. I got him to agree to do nothing about your account for at least six months. By that time, he'll come to his senses. Right now he's in love with his little scheme. But I'm betting that he eventually decides it's too risky."

"Gil, you're a lamb. But," she added thoughtfully, "I don't know that I ever want to do business with Northcott again."

COOLING DOWN

"Why not just relax on the whole thing?" Gil suggested. "Northcott won't make any move right away and you can hash it over later, when everybody's cooled down. Anyhow, before six months is up you'll have other interests."

"Just what do you mean by that?"

He tapped the cold ashes from his pipe. "Oh, nothing special. Only the big Irishman won't wait forever, will he?"

Ede was silent a moment. At length: "You believe that the movie fade-out Mrs. Winwood saw meant all she thought it meant, don't you, Gil?"

"Well, I don't know. But after all, he's a pretty attractive guy and you were both in that business together and I'm a great believer in propriety and . . ."

"Gil, would you mind standing up for a minute?"

"Eh? Why?"

"Because," said Ede, and there was a queer tawny light in her eyes. "I'm going to do something I ought to have done a long time ago. But darn if I'm going down on my knees to do it."

Wonderfully, Gil got up. So did Ede. Suddenly she took his face between her hands and kissed him, full on the lips.

"There!" she said. "Does that tell you anything?"

"I . . . Ede, you don't mean that—that you . . ."

"I do mean just that, Gil Summerfield. I should have married you years ago, only I didn't have sense enough to. As for Dan Reagan, he's a grand guy. But I'm not in love with him and he isn't with me, either. Oh, he thinks he is, of course. But, actually, he's in love with just one thing, getting along in life. He—he doesn't need me."

Gil Summerfield, his arm around her, drew a long breath. "I'm very glad of that," he said, in a low voice. "Because I do."

SENT HIM HOME

Later, a very long time later, Ede, said, lifting her head from Gil's shoulder, "By the way, isn't Hamilton Grieve here?"

Gil laughed. "No. I threw poor old Hamilton out. Couldn't have him around in the state I was in."

He went back on yesterday's boat. I hope, though, that your young sister's gotten over him."

"If what she told me a few days ago is true," Ede said, "she has. It seems she and that nice Tommy Melbourne have things all settled. In fact, Gil—Ede shivered slightly—"everything's working out so well that I—I'm scared. Reagan will do a grand job of running the agency, and keep Jeff and Myron in line. Of course, I'll have to go up once in a while, just to let them know I'm alive. But, outside of that, I'm perfectly willing to leave business to the career women and be a nice comfortable play person—in Bermuda."

But his face was serious. "We could. But if you want diamonds and champagne and big parties and—such like, you'll have to get 'em from that agency of yours. Because Summerfield's income isn't what it used to be."

"Gil!" Ede sat up. "You're trying to tell me you've lost money? Not," she added hastily, "that I care."

"Take it easy," said Gil. "I haven't lost anything. But you know how I've been feeling. About being useless. Fooling around and contributing nothing. That's the reason I listened to Northcott's proposition in the first place. I wanted to raise all the money I could."

"That had me baffled," Ede admitted. "I couldn't think why money had become important all of a sudden—to you."

"Well, it has. But when Northcott finally made himself clear, I had to scrap that way of trying to be of some use. But I think, now, that I've done the best thing I could do. I'm simply turning over most of my income to help out with—war rehabilitation. I mean, for guys who came out of that damned mess a lot worse than I did. With a heck of a lot more than just game legs. I'm pretty late, of course. But I guess anything will be welcome, late or no. The rehabilitating centres are going to need money for years. I didn't go completely nuts, though. We'll have this house and $150 per. Well, how about it?"

The little smile, neither tired nor cynical now, was in his dark eyes. Could you rub along on that, Mrs. Summerfield?"

Ede's lips—red, parted—were dangerously close.

"Could I, Mr. S? My gosh! If you'd even said a couple of bright thin dimes, I . . . Oh, Gil! Kiss me, idiot!"

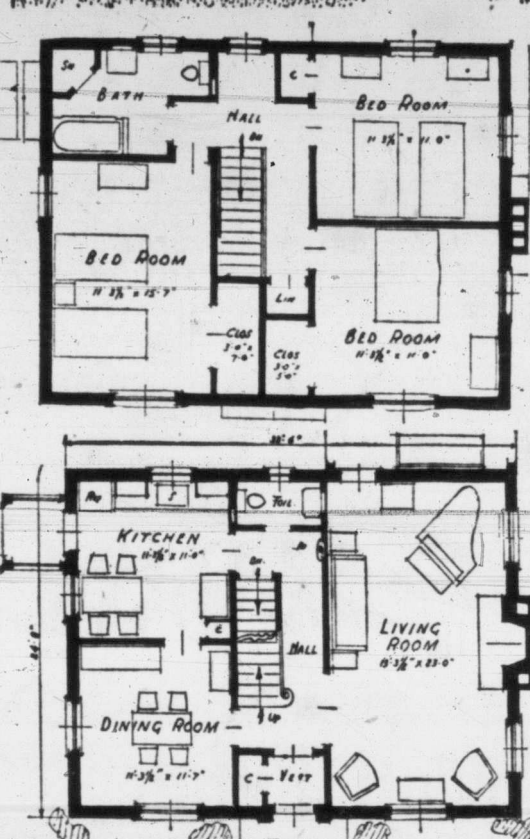

A lick of sultry wind, slipping over the garden's white wall, brought the scent of frangipani. Obnoxious of it, the idiot kissed her.

THE END

"13 Lucky Guys" starts tomorrow as the Times' new serial.

Sgt. Eddie Engstrom didn't feel badly about being a war casualty, but it was just his luck to fall in love after he was dead with a girl who still had a life to live. It is a story full of whimsy, presented by an outstanding writer.

His many musical comedies and motion pictures include "The Time, The Place and The Girl," "The Cowboy and the Lady," and "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now."

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada declared Monday that Canadian Pacific Railway branch lines dealt with in an 1881 federal statute are not subject to certain provincial taxation.

The Supreme Court held the C.P.R. branch lines built under the 1881 legislation are not subject to provincial taxation, but that some buildings and other undertakings in connection with these lines are liable for business tax.

COLEMAN'S COLUMN

By JIM COLEMAN

This is about "The Remarkable Reformation of Ambrose Jason Moran, The Man-Who-Scored-A-Goal-While-Skating-Backwards." We ran into this story in Vancouver last week and we offer it in a spirit of humility because we think that it provides a strong object-lesson for any young athlete who wanders from the Primrose Path.

Young gaffers of today probably don't remember Ambrose Jason Moran, but he was one of the fabulous figures of the "Torrid Twenties." He was the locomotive fireman from Winnipeg who played hockey for Brandon, Regina, Vancouver, Montreal Canadiens, Chicago Black Hawks, Tulsa and way-stations.

He was one of the best all-round athletes ever developed in Winnipeg. In the space of two years, he played on six championship teams—in lacrosse, hockey and baseball. There is no telling how far he might have gone if a fellow-railwayman hadn't given him his first drink of gin at the age of 19. There are competent western sports critics who will tell you that Ambrose Moran could have been elected to Hockey's Hall of Fame, on the strength of his playing ability—if he hadn't been an unregenerate screwball.

You've heard the old legend-of how Cyclone Taylor is reputed to have scored a goal while skating backwards. Taylor never has confirmed that story. The fact remains that Ambrose Moran did score a goal while skating backwards.

That Others May Profit

Despite the fact that he weighed 250 pounds, Moran was a speedy and skilful skater. When he was checked by the opposing defence, he had a trick of pirouetting like a ballet dancer. One night he was playing for Regina Capitals against Calgary Tigers in the old Western Canada League, he was hit by Red Dutton and Herb Gardiner at the Calgary defence.

Ambrose pirouetted, retained possession of the puck, skated backwards all the way from the blue line and blasted the puck past Bill Binnie in the Calgary goal.

However, we're writing this piece with Moran's blessing because he hopes that others may profit from his mistakes. To be brutally frank about it, Ambrose was a lush. Looking back on it, he believes that he was the unchallenged, catch-as-catch-can drinking champion of Canadian professional sport.

The other day, in Vancouver, we asked Ambrose if ever there was an occasion when he was on the wagon.

"Sure," said Mr. Moran affably. "I was on the wagon every time that they had me locked up in the can."

Mr. Moran's visits to these houses of correction were the direct result of the chemical reaction of alcohol on an Irish temperament. Moran never deliberately hurt an opponent in the course of a game but, when he got his nose into the grog, in extra-curricular activities, his actions were somewhat unpredictable.

He Made The Big Time . . . Briefly

Moran owes all his misfortunes to his affection for alcohol. He was one of the outstanding athletes of his era but he was tossed aside reluctantly by sports promoters who couldn't keep him on a straight line. He blew his jobs and he blew his chance with the unreasoning nonchalance of the alcoholic.

Today, Ambrose should have been one of baseball's top umpires, holding a job in the National League.

The National League sent a scout to report on Moran, who had been recommended highly by big league players who barnstormed in Canada. The scout caught up with Moran who was umpiring a Labor Day doubleheader in Winnipeg. It was one of those "synthetic" doubleheaders with a single game in the morning and another in the afternoon.

After the first game, the scout wired National League headquarters: "Hire this man at once. He's outstanding."

During the luncheon interval, Ambrose dipped into a jar of jungle-juice. The crowd appreciated the umpire's antics during the second game but, reluctantly, the scout telegraphed National League and told them to forget about Moran.

It was only his remarkable constitution which kept him going. He skidded and skidded, and then, one night 26 months ago, he reached the end of the road.

His First Real Friends

He was sitting alone in a little hotel room in North Vancouver. He tried to read the newspaper and his eyes couldn't focus on the type. The perspiration ran down him in streams. The walls were closing in on him and there was no one on whom he could call for help.

It was at that precise moment that two strangers walked into his room. On an impulse, they had driven 10 miles through a blinding rainstorm to see him. They were from Alcoholics Anonymous.

Analyzing it now, we believe that those were the first two real friends that Ambrose Moran ever had in his life.

He hasn't had a drink since that day. Now at 55, he looks so wonderfully clear-eyed and happy that his old friends wouldn't recognize him. In our Vancouver hotel room the other day, he told us the story simply and sincerely and he told us that he's devoting the remainder of his life to helping other men and women. We were moved genuinely, when we heard him say: "We don't want to add years to their life—we want to add life to their years."

Well, if ever an old athlete needs help, he should remember the name of Ambrose Jason Moran.

Oak Bay Gains Tie In Overtime Cup Soccer

"Wait till the finals." This was the general comment from the players of the Victoria High School rep soccer team as they came off the field with a 2 to 2 tie to their credit in the Colsonist Cup series Monday after being ahead 2 to 1 at the end of regulation time.

But due to a misunderstanding by the timekeeper the game was played an extra 10 minutes and Oak Bay tied it up in this extra time on a penalty kick.

As both Oak Bay High and V.H.S. are still undefeated, and probably will remain so, they will have to meet again in a best two out of three final.

In the second game of the day Esquimalt High upset Mount View 1 to 0. Mount Douglas, the fifth team, had a bye.

At Windsor Park Oak Bay High's Johnny Johnson scored the first goal midway in the first half. This was the first goal scored against V.H.S. in three years of regular series play. Shortly after, however, "Click" Clarke drove in and cleanly beat the Cranmore Road netminder to tie the score.

Soviets Picture Louis As Gangster

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—Joe Louis, comrades, is a gangster—a gangster of "imperialist" sport—the Communists tell millions of East Europeans.

The former heavyweight boxing champion, to the Communists, is a good excuse for anti-American propaganda. This is what Communist newspapers in the Balkans have been telling their readers recently:

"Not long ago Joe Louis arrived in Rio De Janeiro. The object of his trip was not that of organizing sporting contests. Immediately he arrived, he began an inflated speech about the 'splendid liberty and civilization' in the United States and the necessity of war to allow the 'American way of life' to be extended over other countries. 'Joe Louis was sent to Brazil to use his former sporting glory to make propaganda in favor of war.'"

That is a Communist theme—that American sports are developed to "prepare young Americans for wars and looting like the bestial aggression in Korea."

As "proof" of this contention, the Communists claim: "The sporting business men in America have invented hundreds of perverted forms of sport in their desire to poison the people's conscience. These range from 'catch as catch can' to 'marathon dances.' They aim at developing bestial instincts and to pervert the young."

"American sportsmen are the lackeys of Wall Street. They do not hesitate to bring gangsters from American jails and notorious war criminals on to their sport grounds."

But this is an argument the Communists advance with their tongues in their cheeks. If you pick up scattered newspapers from eastern Europe you will also read:

"Sports are the defence of one's country. They are important from a point of view of national defence. But this, of course, only holds good for Socialist sports—for in the capitalist's countries, all sports serve only the profit of rich patrons."

Although the Communists advance contrary points of view for their own purposes, their newspapers agree on one thing: "The golden days of the 'invincibility and superiority' of American sport have gone forever. Corroded by the cancer of profiteering, U.S. sport is today far behind the flourishing development of Soviet physical training and sport."

Cougars' Booster Club will meet at 749 Broughton Street tonight at 8. The executive will report on the recent publication of the club's roster and put future projects before the membership.

City police gained a shutout Monday in the Firefighters Hockey League. The policemen took the Dockyard Fire Department 5 to 0 in the regular noon-time fixture.

Hundreds Pay Final Tribute To Dutch Evers

New Westminster Teammates Act As Pallbearers

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—The Pacific Northwest's most bitter hockey rivalry was forgotten Monday as teammates and opposing players gathered on common ground—sorrow.

Along with many hundreds of fans, players of the Vancouver Canucks and New Westminster Royals passed before the bier of Merlin (Dutch) Evers, who was fatally injured in an automobile crash.

The simple, moving service for the 37-year-old New Westminster forward, who died Friday, was held in Queens Avenue United Church here.

Of Evers, Rev. W. D. William said: "He who has left us played the game. That is the thing. To play the game while we are playing it, with everything we have."

Teammates were pallbearers—Kenny Ulyot, Bob Bergeron, Hermie Gruhn, Ollie Dorohoy, Maurice Duffy and Ernie Davies. Preceding them as the cortege left the church were Kenny McKenzie and Fred Hume, co-owners of the Pacific Coast Hockey League New Westminster Royals.

Evers was injured Oct. 16 when a car crashed into a bridge abutment near Raymond, Wash. He was unconscious in hospital for weeks.

Pats Close Gap

REGINA (UP)—The Regina Pats trounced Medicine Hat Tigers 11 to 3 last night to move within three points of the first-place, Lethbridge Native Sons in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League.

Captain Eddie Littleberger of the Pats fired four goals to lead the scorers of both teams. Gary Edmundson and Bunny Smith had two each for the Pats, while Bruce Cook countered twice for the Tigers.

Upsets And Hat Tricks In Commercial Offering

It may only be big league in spots, but the customers get a giant-size bargain in blue plate specials Monday nights at the Blanshard Street skatorium.

Take last night in the Commercial Hockey League. First it was the Civil Service, pouring great gobs of mortification on the Douglas Tirmen by turning a second period 2 to 1 deficit into a 4 to 3 win.

Then it was the Fishmen, gorging themselves on goals and clobbering the Capitals unmercifully, hanging tough to an 11 to 2 final score even with three men banished at one time.

Gladwell Meteors provided a frothy dessert with an upset 3 to 2 decision over Navy.

TIREMEN SINGED

Civil Service and Tirmen opened the evening with an appetit which had an unexpected tang. Cliff Coulter provided the starch when he opened the score.

	W	T	L	Pts.
Fishermen's Co-op	3	1	0	11
Douglas Tire	3	2	1	14
Capitals	3	3	0	15
Navy	2	4	0	15
Civil Service	2	3	1	24
Gladwell Meteors	1	3	2	27

ing for the government men, and again as he put his team into the lead near the 12-minute mark in the third period. Gordie Morrison sprinkled some salt with another goal four minutes later and the game was in the bag—feed bag, that is.

CAPS-ROASTED

Appetite whetted, the crowd greeted the main course with anticipation. There was no disappointment. Even without the Varga sauce, the Fishmen had a salty whiff about them. The Varga touch added five points, four goals and an assist including a hat trick in the third period.

What a dish! Only the Caps, on the short end of the 11 to 2 score, had difficulty holding it down. Even with a three-man advantage late in the third period, Caps couldn't turn the tables. An added serving was a slide order of Roy Derry, from the junior ranks of last year. Derry gave extra flavor to the feast with an assist on McConechy's lead-off goal.

Shamrocks Get Fox; Tie For League Lead

With big Ernie Fox making his first appearance of the year, the Ten O Two Shamrocks last night whipped Fletcher's Men's Wear, 45 to 28, to move into a first-place tie in the senior B men's hoop standings.

Fox, who originally had planned to hang up his shoes this season, must have had a change of heart and it paid off for the Rocks as the giant bucketman racked up 12 points from the pivot post.

Fred Ranson, who is dividing his time between the Shamrocks and Individual Dry Cleaners also picked up a dozen points for the winners. The Rocks led 26 to 14 at the half and coasted home from there.

The Rocks also showed another ex-senior A' player in the person of Gordie Ellis who scored seven points.

Gerry Parker was the best of the clothiers with nine points. In other Victoria and District League games on the card, Moose trimmed Comets, 28 to 24, in a senior B women's contest, and McNutt's Loggerettes, whipped Esquimalt Merchants, 41 to 18.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

This was the first (and we think it will be annual) Grand Acquaintance dance of the Sideliners, who, if you don't follow lacrosse, backed a dark horse in the Shamrocks, this summer and almost got a winner. The Shamrocks, it will be recalled without too much effort, were a bunch of pre-season unknowns whom coach Arnold Ferguson almost parlayed into the Mann Cup finals.

The dance ostensibly was for the guests to meet the Shamrocks and the introduction took place in the grand ballroom with Sideliner president Harry Woolston doing the honors. "Meet the Shamrocks," he said, and that was it. Then came a presentation of "Shamrock" pins to each member of the team who took part in the Inter-city Lacrosse League finals. The pins were unsolicited and came from an anonymous donor who once played a little basketball for the Blue Ribbons.

A few pleasant memories of trips to the mainland were recalled when master of ceremonies Ted Reynolds told of the reason he had to leave Saanich to reside in Oak Bay. Ted, who used to make the odd trip to the mainland for the purpose of airing the Rocks games, has a wife whose name is Irene. The Shamrocks favorite song is "Good Night Irene." Ted (or was it his wife) was serenaded one morning about 1.30 (I think it was after the Rocks beat the Indians in the semi-finals) and according to Ted the neighbours didn't appreciate it, thus the change in residence.

Doing Their Bit For Sport

The invitation we received read: "Dancing from 9 to 11." We arrived late because we had to see what Art Chapman had in Victoria's senior A basketball entry, the Individual Cleaners (we were agreeably impressed), and, according to the invitation, we left early. But we were there long enough to realize that the Sideliners as an organization are doing their share to promote sport in the city.

They, the Sideliners, got behind the Shamrocks when few gave them a chance; they stayed with the club all season, organizing special chartered trips for playoff games, and now have promised their backing to the minor divisions in the future.

The Shamrocks were well supported last year but there still is a need for a strong junior organization to assure strong senior teams in the future, and that brings to mind another point.

About Minor Hockey

In the city there is an organization known as the Victoria Minor Hockey Association. The V.M.H.A. caters to kids. It provides them with the hockey. It would like to provide the same opportunity to many more but is unable to do so. At the present time there are 357 registered players in the association but—and here's the catch—the association is not receiving the support it should.

The association's only means of revenue comes from its Island Junior League, a three-team circuit composed of Nanaimo, Navy and a Victoria all-star team. And so far this season this league has averaged 218 head per game. That's about a 60 per cent drop from last year and officials fear that if the trend continues their ice-time at the Arena will be cut next season.

Why Not Ask The Kids?

Now the parents of the members of this association should be the first to realize the importance of the work that is being carried out and perhaps in an unofficial way they could form their own booster club. We need not stress the fact that if ice-time is cut, fewer youngsters will play hockey, and if this tragedy occurs the blame rests squarely on the shoulders of the mothers and fathers of these youngsters.

The junior hockey at the Arena isn't the Memorial Cup variety but it is fast approaching the level of the Commercial League which is well supported. And the hockey isn't going to improve if such youngsters aren't availed of the opportunity of receiving their groundwork at an early age. The kids are playing hockey now—something that was denied most of us—so let's keep it that way. Or better still, why not ask the kids themselves.

THE BROKEN; CARTAGE TOP DUNCAN BOYS

Lower Divisions Follow Form Chart In Minor Soccer

Duncan Native Sons dropped to third place in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association junior division when Heaney's Cartage triumphed 5 to 2 at Bullen Park Sunday afternoon. The two teams had been tied for second spot until Sunday's game.

The six goals of the match were distributed between four players; Malcolm Preston and Lionel Smith scoring two each for Heaney's with Bob Kay getting the odd marker. Duncan's marksman was Bob Goldsmith. With a 2 to 1 lead at the half, Heaney's made no mistake in the second, scoring 4 to Duncan's single reply.

TRUE TO FORM

Tillicums and Vic Combines, first and second place leaders, respectively, in Division I, both won their games by identical scores. Tillicums topped Esquimalt 2 to 1 and Combines nudged Pitzer and Nex by the same margin.

Edwin Crabbe and Bob Abbott were marksmen for Tillicums, with Ted Saunders placing the single goal for Esquimalt. Ken Erskine and Bob Lawson did the trick for Combines, while Ken Barnes was the sharpshooter for the Pitzer and Nex entry.

THISTLES ARE PRICKLY

Garry Crowe with two, and Garry Moss and Bob Cummings with singletons, were Saanich Tittle pillars in a 4 to 1 win over Balmoral Thistles in Division II. Gordon Sillars scored the lone goal for the losers.

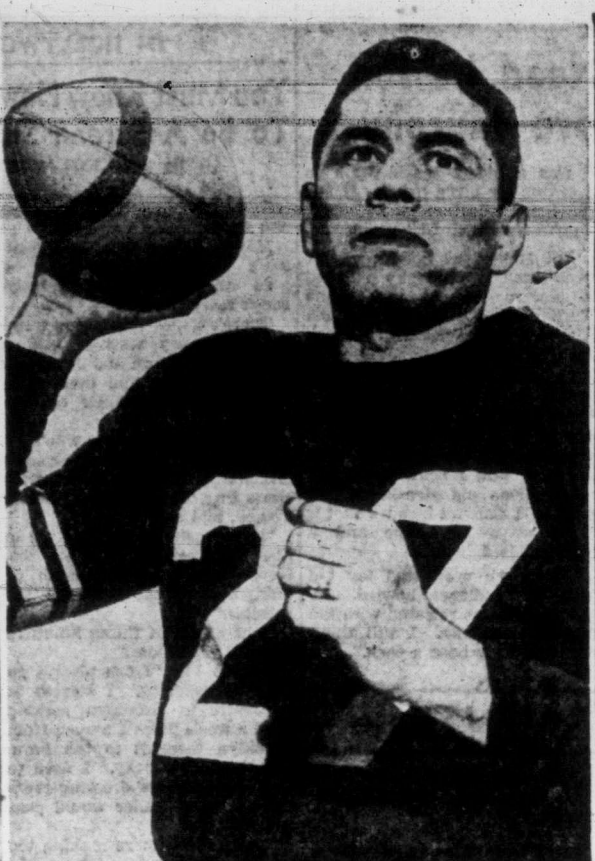

Mac's Champs of Division III were 6 to 2 victors over Argosy Cafe in Division IV in an exhibition game at Macdonald Park. Barry Peterson and Harry Talbot each scored pairs for the Champs. Ken Nicholson and Keith Todd scored singletons. Argosy marksmen were Ronnie Steele and Carnis Johnson.

BRUINS GET ALEX KALETA

BOSTON (BUP)—The Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have acquired winger Alex Kaleta from the New York Rangers.

Kaleta—who was immediately sent to the Bruins' Hershey, Pennsylvania, minor league team—was obtained in the aftermath of a player deal that brought Dunk Fisher to Boston.

Boston gave up wingers Ed Harrison and Zello Toppazini to the Rangers in exchange for Fisher and the promise of additional strength for Hershey.

To Lead Bombers

When Winnipeg Blue Bombers meet Toronto Argonauts in the Grey Cup Canadian football championship at Varsity Stadium Saturday, Indian Jack Jacobs will be one of the main western hopes. Jacobs is quarterback for the Winnipeg team and a triple threat performer to boot. He played a leading role in the Bombers' march to the Western Football Conference title.

Best Dog In Show Award Goes To Cocker Spaniel

The best in show award went to a large number of Victoria district dog fanciers.

A top-place sporting cocker from the U.S.A. in the Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers' Association all-breed show at the Club Sirocco Saturday night: The spaniel, called Land O' Trail Blazer, was an entry of the Flo Eobs Kennels of Portland, Oregon.

A Victoria collie, Elmhill Episodic, owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Webb, was judged to be the best Canadian-bred and best working dog.

Another double winner was a Kerry blue terrier shown by Mrs. F. Y. McEachern of Vancouver. The mainland city entry won the best reserve and best terrier awards.

Best Canadian-bred puppy was a pekingese, exhibited by Mrs. Dollie Wall of Vancouver. Another pekingese, owned by Mrs. Gladys Creasy, was named best toy dog; and an English bulldog bearing the name of Churchill won honors for best non-sporting dog for his owner, Mrs. Enid Osborne, of Vancouver. An American beagle, Colton's Chief, was best sporting hound.

A. W. Forbes of Tacoma judged the show, which attracted

Larson Praises Argos After Scouting Finals

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Take it from Frank Larson, coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Toronto Argonauts have "one swell football club."

And Larson isn't trying to juggle the odds in favor of his Bombers when they meet Argos in the Grey Cup final at Toronto's Varsity Stadium Saturday. The amiable Bomber coach is basing his statement from his scouting of Argos in their triumphs over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four final and over Toronto Balmy Beach in the eastern championship.

"Argos are a well-balanced team," Larson said. "They have a good variety of plays and run the ends well."

But—as he is known to most of the Bomber players and officials—says the final should be a "wide-open affair, with plenty of passing. And as both teams play a similar game, it probably will be the breaks which decide the issue."

ARGOS HAVE DEPTH

He concedes Argos an advantage in depth, but believes Bombers' terrific team spirit can offset that point.

"I'd sure like to be able to operate on a two-platoon system as Argos do," Larson said. "But as long as our key men are able to keep going, we'll be all right on offense or defence."

Larson, who sat in the press box at Saturday's eastern final, said one really gets a different picture of a team from high up than from along the sidelines.

"There's quite a few things I noticed from the press box I probably would have missed from down below," he said. "But even at that, it's pretty tough to point out a single weakness in the Argos set-up."

DAMP RECEPTION

Yesterday the Bombers passed through Toronto and arrived in London without fanfare. They got a damp reception at both cities, a driving rain greeting them in Toronto and a wet snow spoiling their arrival here.

Despite the unfavorable weather, Larson soon had his men out on their eastern training grounds at the University of Western Ontario Stadium.

Practice was confined to running back of punts, signal drill and a few limbering-up exercises. Bombers hope to work out here

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Film Moguls Need Lesson In Juvenile Love—Murphy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Murphy, back from a national tour, announced that Hollywood should learn some things about love, juvenile style.

The actor has just returned from a 49-day jaunt to 23 cities in 16 states during which he was interviewed by about 100 high school paper editors and spoke to an estimated 25,000 high school kids in nine cities.

"On one thing they were unanimous," Murphy declared. "They hate the mushy love scenes in movies. They have their own ideas about love-making and they don't agree with the way it is shown in movies."

"I can see their point. Whenever there is a love scene in a picture, the two stars go into a Gorgeous-George clinch. Kids are different. I remember when I was a kid, I would walk in front of my girl's house. If she happened to look out the window, I got a terrific thrill."

But Hollywood doesn't go for such society. Murphy recalled a picture he did with Lana Turner some years ago. Lana played a young gal with a crush on George. He was required to give her a goodnight kiss in one scene.

"I gave her a peck on the cheek, as a guy would with a younger gal," he recalled. "The producer said I should take her in my arms and give her a real smack. I disagreed, so we shot it three ways—his, mine and a medium-sized kiss."

"When we previewed the big kiss, the audience howled. So the picture was released with the medium-sized one. I still think it should have been a peck."

★ IN HOLLYWOOD ★ You Must Know How To Dance To Be A Screen Singing Star By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Guys and Dolls: Maybe Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald ought to be glad they're out of camera range these days.

There's a new Hollywood trend to turn every warbler into a hooper and Nelson and Jeanette would probably find themselves doing the Hucklebuck on the screen.

Vi Damone, a singer who's received the report-to-the-dance-director ultimatum along with Doris Day, Tony Martin and Jane Powell, told me:

"Nick Castle is teaching me to hoof. He's real good to me, too. Never says anything harsh or unkind. He just says I'm impossible."

Is he afraid of filling Sinatra's shoes at the studio?

Laughs Vi: "I can always go back to ushers. I started at a theatre in Brooklyn making $7.50 a week. Then I moved from Brooklyn theatres to the Paramount on Broadway. I used to sing in the ushers' dressing room and the band-leader would pass and yell:

"Shaddup! You're making too much noise!"

A movie fur designer is still blinking. A producer with a story about a stenographer called him for an expensive mink coat for his star.

"But," said the producer, "spray it or something to make it look like an imitation mink. After all, the heroine's a working girl."

"Why don't we start with an imitation mink in the first place?" the furrier wanted to know. "It will save you a lot of money."

The producer coughed and answered:

"Don't be foolish. This is a very important star."

"Why Hollywood say such naughty, naughty things about me?"

That's what Isa Miranda, once Paramount's answer to M-G-M's Garbo, moaned when I asked her about the temperamental didoes she is reported to have pulled in movietown before the war.

Isa's the Italian actress who co-starred with Ray Milland in "Hotel Imperial," with George Brent in "Adventure in Diamonds," then found herself replaced by Claudette Colbert in "Zaza."

"Temperament! It's not true," Isa wailed. "I worked in 'Zaza' four or five days. Suddenly they said my English wasn't good enough. That night I felt like killing myself. Still now I don't know why I was replaced. I only know I wanted to kill myself."

Isa's now the owner of an Oscar for giving the best acting performance in the world in "The Walls of Malapaga," according to the judges at the Venice Film Festival.

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

When the alder's burning warm and ruddy in the fireplace, it's great to be a winter outdoor man—but only in books. A man can slouch into his sleepy hollow and be as red-blooded as Alley Oop, with a volume on Ungava, storm on the Oregon Trail, or gallant treks over the Arctic tundra. It's bracing to face the stinging bite of sleet, to pull your parka closer as you head into the wind, to snugg down in a snow berth, or creep into an igloo—just so long as the fire's warm and you're reasonably sure the furnace is pumping hot air into the bedroom when you get tired of reading and decide to retire. Give me the pioneer life. Let me struggle against the weather and hardships—so long as they're on the printed page and the soles of my slippers are pleasantly warm on the hearth stool.

THAT WAY I CAN even revel with the Scouts who have taken to November week-ends under canvas at Millstream. They probably wouldn't understand my attitude. That's fair enough. I've almost forgotten how they feel as they rough it in the wilds.

Just the same, there's a small touch of envy in hothouse flowers like me for the ruggedness of the youngsters and the sharp-keen enjoyment they find in making discomforts comfortable. Something more than hardiness lends appeal to a sleeping bag and groundsheet in a big tent with other fellows. It may not be as restful as a spring-filled mattress in a well-insulated bedroom, but what can these products of civilization offer in the way of adventure to compete with camping out?

YOU HEAR THE stories the boys bring back. One tells of a steak grilled over a campfire. No filet mignon had its taste. No bacon and eggs at home had the savor of those whipped from the skillet in the chill Millstream morning after a troubled night's sleep. And if an unskilled cook poured his bacon grease into the fire and used butter to fry the potatoes, well, potatoes taste good fried in butter.

You hear them laugh at recollection of the boy whose simmering dinner tipped and fell into the flames when he grabbed and dropped a hot pot handle, and you know he shared the meals of his friends.

You hear an echo of their shouts as they clambered over rough trails on afternoon hikes. You sense the bustle of tent raising, fire building, rustic cooking. You imagine them and the thoughts they had in the short quiet of darkness before they fell asleep.

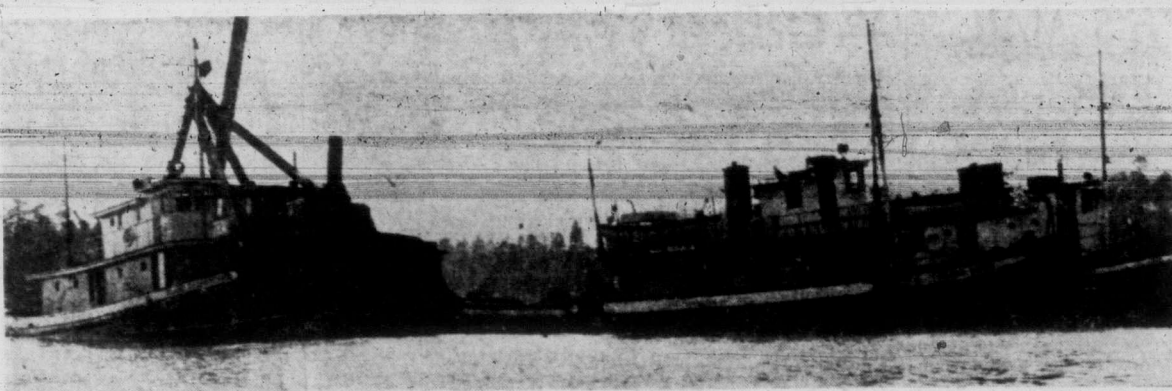

YOU PICTURE them learning to live together, as boys must live together who share a big tent, who look after their own meals, and who make recreation a group activity. You sense in them a feel for the outdoors, something almost of the spirit that ties them to the tradition of their country, that finds expression in simple woodcraft, the ability to look after themselves, and to draw inspiration and happiness from nature.

The boys wouldn't explain it to you that way. Even if they recognized the feelings, they'd be close-mouthed about them. They go week-end camping in November for the fun of it, because the crowd's too dispersed in summer to get the troop together.

LIKE ANY OTHER recreation, it's enjoyable because they don't have to do the things they do. It's adventure and there's always a hot bath, mother's cooking and a soft bed for them when they get home.

Sure, these outings rouse a little envy in adults, but the envy is for the ability of the boys to enjoy them so thoroughly. When it comes to roughing it, the mature mind will settle for a little vicarious experience—and the rougher, the more attractive will be the second-hand nature of the experience.

The mature mind will offer explanations, even for the idea of a November week-end under canvas. But when you're 12 to 15 years old, what do you need explanations for? The guys are going camping, and you're going with them. It's as simple as that. And if you happen to be 12 to 15, it's fun. If it rains hard, you'll have to figure some way of fixing things up in the tent. What does it matter? What did the pioneers do?

'CADDY' MAKES RETURN

Naval Officer, Sea Monster Both Terrified After Brief Encounter

"Caddy" and a commander of the Royal Canadian Navy came face to face Sunday off Esquimalt harbor.

Neither liked what he saw. "Caddy" blinked one of his big black eyes, snapped his jaws shut and headed at 10 knots in the direction of Albert Head.

The naval officer was so terrified he high-tailed it for shore. The meeting took place at 3 in the afternoon between Macaulay Point and Brothers Island, about one-third of a mile offshore. The officer was fishing from an open rowboat and his lure was 70 feet out. There was a heavy swell and a stiff breeze. Visibility was excellent.

30 FEET LONG

"Caddy" crossed the stern of the boat, inside the lure. He was 30 feet from head to tail and created a heavy wash. He surfaced about every 35 feet. Each time he lifted his head from the water he opened his mouth wide and showed two rows of large teeth, which had a saw-tooth appearance. Before he dove he snapped his teeth together with a terrifying sound.

The officer said "Caddy's" head was shaped something like that of an ordinary garden snake. It was about 18 inches across and two feet in length. The eyes, jet black, were between two and three inches in diameter.

"Caddy's" head, said the officer, sat on a neck about six feet long and where it joined the body there seemed to be shoulders. He propelled himself with large flippers on either side and his enormous tail appeared flat like that of a beaver. It was not the fish type of tail.

BROWN HAIR

"Caddy's" body, said the naval man, had a gradual hump but in no part was it serrated. He observed no gills in the head. The head and body were covered with hair, brown in color.

For 25 seconds the officer had a good look at "Caddy."

"I don't mind admitting that I was terrified, especially when he snapped his jaws," said the officer. "If I had had a camera I'm quite sure I wouldn't have been able to use it as I was so fixed by the strange sight. I've been a scouter at 'Caddy' but never again. I've seen black fish, whales and sea creatures of all sorts but I never saw anything like this before."

After three Crown witnesses had been heard, the case was remanded to Nov. 27 for resumption.

James J. Proudfoot appeared as counsel, C. L. Harrison acting for the Crown.

Newton is alleged to have stolen a sum of money from Charlie Bakhtour and Bunt Baines, partners in the Shawinigan Douglas Fir Company, also known as Beacon Fuel.

Mrs. Ella Sharpe, 1131 Wychbury, said she paid Newton $30 for six cords of wood. She said she received no receipt. W. J. McAlpin, Cordova Bay, testified that he paid accused $12 for two cords of wood and received no receipt. George D. Miles, 551 Kenneth Street, said he paid Newton $7. A receipt was put in as an exhibit.

Defence evidence was delayed as a witness was not available.

Alberta Plan Sparks Move For Control Of Professions In B.C.

'Revision To Safeguard Public,' Proposal Advanced By Labor

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The move by the Alberta government to control professional licensing in that province is having its repercussions in Victoria today and indications are that representations will be made to British Columbia Attorney-General Gordon Wismer to take similar steps to overhaul the Professional Act.

"The closed shop principle enjoyed by doctors and lawyers will be thrashed out at forthcoming labor meetings," Robert Smeal, president of the Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.), said.

SHOULD BE REVISED

Mr. Smeal said labor was all in accord that the licensing privileges should be taken away from professional men, but many thought that some aspects of the Professional Act should be revised to safeguard public interest.

"As for myself, I haven't given much thought to the question," he said.

Charles A. Peck, president of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council, said he was of the opinion that the affiliated unions would not be against doctors and lawyers remaining in control of their own organizations.

"It is really a closed shop," he said. "Labor is asking for the same privileges. It's a democratic principle."

While the majority of members of the legal profession strongly objected to any changes to the Professional Act, there were some who thought there was room for changes in the matter of disciplining lawyers.

AGAINST TAKING OVER

One thing was certain, the Bar Association would strongly oppose any move of the government to take over the licensing. J. B. Clearihue, a barrister, said that he felt the lawyers would fight any move to take away their privileges.

The chief complaint of members of the labor organizations was that professional organizations were practically "law unto themselves" and there was no legislation to protect the public from erring professional men.

This was especially so in the cases of people who have suffered losses as the result of dishonest professional men, they said. The professional organizations were not bound by law to reimburse the victims.

FULL RESPONSIBILITY

It was felt that if they wanted the power to discipline their members, they should also take over full responsibility of damages incurred by a defaulting professional man to a citizen.

Under the present administration, professional men discipline their erring members, but the breach of law they commit is seldom made known to the public, it was pointed out.

If the government took over the licensing of professional men it would also have to take full responsibility of disciplining them, they said.

HITS LAMP STANDARD

Lee See Young, 846 Yates Street, in backing his truck on Cormorant Street near Douglas, Monday evening collided with a lamp standard and broke two globes, police said.

BREEZE PROVES CAPABLE OF HANDLING GALE

It was wind against breeze at Ogden Point today as a 45-mile-an-hour gale whipped whitecaps across the harbor.

This strange-sounding situation is merely a spot of punning—for the Panamanian freighter Atlantic Breeze was docked there taking on 825,000 board feet of lumber for the United Kingdom.

Also at the dock was the British vessel Ingletton, loading half a million feet of lumber.

47 Doukhobors May Receive Prison Parole

Parole may be granted shortly to 47 Doukhobors who have been in penitentiary over three years for arson and other acts of violence.

A special committee on Doukhobor affairs has been reviewing their case, and it has been recommended they be screened with a view to release.

They were sentenced in 1947 to terms ranging to seven years. The parole, if agreed to by the Justice Department at Ottawa, is part of a long-range plan undertaken by the committee in working out a permanent solution to the Doukhobor problem.

In September the Ottawa authorities approved release of 395 Doukhobors jailed for lesser offences, mainly nude parading.

Bamfield Reader Inquires About Churchill Cards

By PENNY SAVER

Starch me garters, if greetings from Bamfield haven't found their way to this office. It was a very pleasant surprise to hear from a reader of the far "north." Just shows you the distance of daily paper travels. Mrs. R. B. Scott, the kind lady in question, just had to find out about those Winston Churchill Christmas cards I mentioned a few weeks ago.

Now that I've written her, and told her the name of the store in which I first saw them, I'd like to say that the cards are available in most departmental and smaller stationery stores in the city.

By the way, anytime you want to know where I've seen articles, just give me a call here at the paper or drop me a line. Glad to hear from you!

Don't know about you, but herself here loves to read Maggie and Jiggs... especially get a

Thrifty Nifty

Kick out of the framed pictures on the walls of their rather outlandish home. Ever noticed how the subjects in the picture will either jump right out of the frame or sit precariously on the edge of same? Well, me hearties, 'tis just such a picture, and just such characters, that I came across this morning.

Caricature pictures they call them, and for the den-or-rumpus room they'd be the cat's whiskers. Size of the pictures, 8 by 10 1/2, and the price on them, $2.95. As for the scenes depicted, there is the diver, poised above the depths of a pool; tennis player who, from the force of oncoming tennis ball has been almost completely knocked out of the picture and last but certainly not least the supposed hunter aiming at a comely duck. The duck is situated about two inches away from the frame. Bet you'll love the little rascals—as much as I do. Figures, in case you've wondered, are a plaster composition.

Talk about saving pennies... and who isn't... I found bone china cups and saucers, this morning, selling for as little as 79 pennies. No kidding! There are about five patterns to choose from including an all-pink set, gold edged and all in supply.

On that same table were teapots from England... love 'em or leave 'em, but they were only 87 pennies. A delicate flower pattern, gold trim, encircled the holders of the brew.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

One of the tragedies in any home is the child who is different, who, either because of injury at birth or defective development before birth is doomed to remain outside the realm of normal childhood.

Every parent of such a child faces the same problems. What can they expect of him? If he is backward, will it be forever? Shall he be kept at home or in an institution? While the timetable for teaching and training will be different than for the average child, the mother will do the same things, essay the same training programs.

She will be patient with the child for this slow learning, and she will never be angry for failure. Over and over she will repeat the same lessons so that eventually the child becomes dry and clean; eats and dresses himself with some degree of tidiness and becomes aware of the rights of property.

The physically handicapped child who is mentally normal can learn the more quickly, but all children, unless of very low mentality should be able to learn eventually, if training is persistent.

The attitude of adults and other children to this different child is always a heart-break to the parent. While she may try to treat the child as normally as she can, others may not, and it is her cross to see the child repudiated or taunted through no fault of his own.

It is then that parents may see the desirability of an institution where the child will be taught to the limits of his capacity to learn.

Even as I write this I am all too aware that there are not enough state facilities for taking care of all the children of this

Mayor, Honor Guest

His Worship, Mayor George, is to be the guest of honor and will officially open the Christmas bazaar of Ladies' Guild to St. George's Church.

Conveners of the affair which is to be held in St. George's Hall, Cadboro Bay, Nov. 29, at 2, are Mrs. Harold Smith, needlework; Mrs. George Stewart, aprons; Miss Una McAnally, toys; Mrs. W. W. Melville, baby wear; Mrs. J. Hamilton Stubbs, home cooking; Mrs. J. Howlett, pennants; Mesdames David McKeand, and A. Chase, superfluities; A.Y.P.A., candy; and Mrs. Chaucery Martin, tea.

A colorful and delicious sundae sauce for autumn entertaining requires but three ingredients: dried apricots, honey and marsh-mallows. This is the way to prepare it. Take 1 1/2 cups apricots and grind fine. Heat 2 1/2 cups honey just below boiling point. Remove from heat, add apricots and half cup marsh-mallows and stir to blend. This sauce is yummy on vanilla or mint ice cream.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Mother's Family Critical Of Her Poverty-Ridden Married Life; Girl Married Well, Aunts Unbending

Dear Mary Haworth: My problem involves my mother's family—her brothers and sisters and their attitudes towards her and us children. When I was a little girl, my aunts, then unmarried, would openly berate mother. For example, they would ask why she didn't buy new linoleum for her kitchen, the old one being worn in spots. She would say nothing.

We were very poor, all our money went for food; and I would wonder why my aunts would openly embarrass mother, when they knew the situation as well as I did. I often stayed overnight with my aunts; and it seemed to me they would all get together with my grandmother, and talk unkindly about my mother. Mary Haworth my mother. They often said how the dust collected on her furniture. She had six children, one a baby, and we were kindly cared for; so what did it matter if a little dust collected?

One aunt in particular puzzled me. She seemed to pick on me. I was married recently and in time went to visit her. She is married now and has four children. As she invited me in, she looked me up and down with a critical stare, but I was polite to her. It was mid-afternoon but her breakfast dishes were undone, and I noticed too that her beds were unmade, and there was considerable dust around; also a worn spot on the kitchen floor. And her children were dirty.

AUNT GIVES HER SNEERING LAUGH

She continued to give me a critical stare, although I was dressed very neatly and plainly. We talked of various things and then I mentioned that my husband had given me a sewing machine, of which I was very proud. (Mother never had a sewing machine, and us children often wore torn clothes.) When I spoke of the sewing machine, Aunt Kit laughed very loud and long in my face, as if to say, "Why do you try? You'll never have anything or be anybody." Looking back on our conversation, I wonder why things are like this. Can you shed any light on the situation?

Incidentally, John and I had a simple church wedding. I wore a suit and had one attendant. John paid for everything except my clothes, and after the ceremony we had our own home waiting. None of my aunts had this when they were married; in fact, none of my relatives has any money to speak of. I would like to be on better terms with all the relatives on my mother's side, but there seems to be a wall or something that blocks even the slightest friendly gesture. Please discuss the problem. E.P.

SEEMS ONE AUNT CREATES UGLINESS

Dear E.P.: It is probable that the aunt who "seems to pick on" you was also the most actively unfriendly critic of your mother during your childhood—the relative most vocal and persistent in taunting her face-to-face, and in agitating unkind chatter about her behind her back, but in your hearing. And in those years, perhaps this Aunt Kit perceived your sensitive, reproachful and possibly mutely defiant reaction to her loud-mouthed hostility to your mother.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Times.

'Y' Officer Visits Here

MISS MARY BARKER

Here on a friendly visit, as she calls it, is Miss Mary Barker of Toronto.

Four months of the year the tall, slender woman extends the welcoming hand of the Y.W.C.A. in her capacity as health education secretary from the National Council headquarters in Toronto.

Telling of her work, Miss Barker describes herself as "a sort of liaison officer."

"My suggestions to the associations in each city are not dictatorial," smiled the soft-spoken visitor, "but rather my advice is offered and taken or rejected, as the associations see fit."

Last year at this time Miss Barker was traveling through Newfoundland. This year, having just visited Penitence, Kelowna and Vancouver, she is in Victoria for the first time. "Actually," she smiled, "it isn't my first trip to this city. A few years ago I was whisked through the city on a hurried tourist's birds-eye view.

"I might add that I have never heard of any one who did not like British Columbia. Descriptions of sea and magnificent mountains preceded my trip."

While in the city, Miss Barker will participate as guest panelist at the Canadian Association for Health Physical Education and Recreation to be held at the Y.W.C.A. this evening. She will speak for the Y.M.C.A. as well as for the women.

"Now that the interview is over," said the handsome grey-haired woman, "will you tell me where I may buy hand-woven goods. My reason for asking stems from an excellent exhibition of B.C. Weavers' Guild that I saw in Vancouver. I simply must take materials home for Christmas gifts," she concluded.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Canon George Biddle performed the ceremony and church organist, F. Chubb, played traditional wedding music.

E. F. G. White gave the bride in marriage.

She wore for the occasion a white organza gown in period style, the full skirt, slightly en train, caught up in front with bows of white ribbons and pearls and the slender bodice enhanced with a yoke of fine lace.

A floor length veil was held to the head with a coronet of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was red roses.

Visits made by nurses of the Victorian Order of Nurses continue to increase, Miss Marjorie Baird reported at a board of management meeting.

In this connection, Miss Baird said, visits to chronic patients already total 1,600 more calls to date this year than at the same date last year.

The supervisor stressed the ever-growing number of elderly people needing care and accommodation.

Total number of visits made by the Order during October was 1,902. These included 568 visits to mothers with their new babies, 29 to expectant mothers, 53 to tuberculosis cases, 115 to cancer patients, 351 to medical and surgical cases, 176 instructive calls and 610 to chronic patients.

KILTS LOSE FAVOR IN DANCING

EDINBURGH (CP)—A flared tartan skirt worn with matching scarf and white shirt-bouse threatens to rival the kilt for Scottish country dancing.

Traditionally the scarf is worn over one shoulder, but can also be used as a stole. Some members of the dancing-club set say the skirt is more flattering to the figure, than the kilt, which gives a short, stubby look. Another point is that a skirt outfit costs about $9 compared with $30 for a kilt.

Die-hard opponents contend the skirt detracts from the appearance of the dance. Nothing, they say, can "take" the place of the swing of the kilt in a country reel.

Red Cross Lodge Birthday Party

The spacious rooms of the Red Cross Lodge hummed with activity, entertainment and visitors Sunday evening, when Lions Ladies' Auxiliary sponsored the third birthday of the lodge.

D.V.A. patients, their families and friends were welcomed by Mrs. A. Meharey, chairman of Red Cross Lodge, and Mrs. George Thackray, convener of the party.

For the occasion, a specially decorated cake and refreshments were served throughout the evening. A program of entertainment included Frank Merrifield, magician, dance team Phyllis Pollard and Wayne Farrow and tap soloist Rae Evenden. Ernie Hackett was piano accompanist. A rousing community sing song concluded the evening.

Miss Beryl Ferguson, medical record librarian, Royal Jubilee Hospital, has just returned to the city after attending a meeting of medical record librarians in Vancouver over the week-end.

British Women Like Sea Jobs

LONDON (CP)—Life on the ocean wave has become attractive for large numbers of British women.

One shipping official said his company (Canard) has nearly 600 women working at sea and the "waiting list is so long we can't accept any more applications."

There are long queues for such jobs as stewardess, nursing sister, assistant purser, telephone operator, hairdresser laundry woman and bath attendant. No girls under 25 are employed and nursing sisters must be 30 or over.

Here's the company's description of the ideal stewardess: "She should be domestically inclined, but pure domesticity is not enough. She should be adaptable, with a capacity for understanding, have tact and patience, and the ability to submit to strict discipline."

Says Working Wife Gains No Benefits

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP)—Outside work for wives in South Africa has no real benefits, says Mrs. C. L. Wright, president of the Pretoria Council of Women.

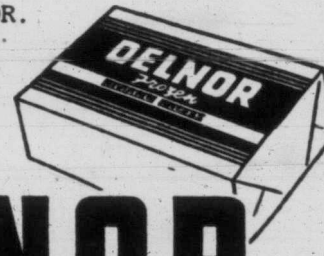

In a speech here she said that good hired help in the home takes a large part of the extra earnings, while the working wife needs extra clothes and must pay extra income tax.

Chief disadvantage, she said, is that the centre of her interest is no longer entirely her home, and children pay the price. The woman suffers extra wear and tear in attending to two jobs and is too tired when she gets home to care about what happened to her family during the day.

IT'S COME! A WINNIE BONNET!

PARIS (AP)—Churchill hats—a feminine version of the headgear habitually worn by the statesman—were displayed last night at a fashion showing staged by French couturier Pierre Balmain.

The hats look like a cross between a derby and a homburg, have three-inch-high crowns dented slightly through the centre, and narrow brims sharply furled at each side.

The inevitable cigar—Churchillian size—adorns a number called "Winston" which is made of navy-blue broad feathers.

Forerunner for spring is "Chequers," a hat named after the famous country home of Britain's prime ministers.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Kidney Stones Prove Painful To Sufferer

Many people who have experienced different kinds of painful illnesses claim that passing a kidney stone is the worst of all. At any rate there is no doubt that someone who has had this difficulty never wants to go through it again and dreads the possibility of another attack.

Exactly what causes kidney stones is still somewhat uncertain. The chemical nature of stones is not alike in all cases, so that probably the causes are not always the same. They form in a part of the kidney, and may stay in this part without producing symptoms for a long time. Infection, slow flow of urine, diet, and perhaps other things are believed to lead to the formation of these hard chemical compounds.

When a stone leaves the kidney and starts to pass down the small, sensitive passageway to the bladder, the pain starts. This is usually accompanied by blood in the urine, and by excruciating pain which is likely to be felt in the back. At this stage of the game the sufferer needs relief from the pain more than anything else. This usually requires morphine, often in large quantities. Besides relieving the immediate pain, the morphine causes relaxation, and may make it easier for the stone to pass on to the bladder.

Unfortunately, the passage of one stone is too often the sign that others have formed, and may start their own painful courses later on. Long range planning must therefore be put in effect. The stone must be obtained, and analyzed chemically. A search must be made for infection in the urinary organs or elsewhere in the body. The urine must be tested to find out whether it is acid or alkaline. A study must be made of the diet to find out whether anything is wrong there.

PAIN CAN BE EXTREME

Sometimes a stone does not pass of itself, and the pain and other symptoms remain intolerable. When this happens the passage of the stone sometimes can be aided by oiling or by the use of the delicate instruments which are now available. One way or another, however, the single stone can usually be removed and the only problem that remains is to study ways and means of preventing later trouble.

Diet is recognized as exceedingly important in the prevention of kidney stones. Some foods, for example, like rhubarb (in large quantities) are known to enter into the formation of certain kinds of chemical stones. Diet also plays a part in the formation of other kinds of chemical stones, and can also be used to change the reaction of the urine from acid to alkaline or vice versa. This last is a measure of great importance.
